Capone Pleads Guilty To Tax And Prohibition Charges

FACES TERM OF 34 YEARS BEHIND BARS

Sentence to Be Passed By Federal Judge Wilkerson in Chicago June 30

POWER IS CRUSHED

Understood May Be Given Two and Half Years and Fine of $10,000

CHICAGO, June 16.—(UP)—Al Capone, his underworld power crushed by the United States government, stood in federal court today and pleaded guilty to defrauding the nation of almost $200,000 in income taxes and conspiring in a $200,000,000 beer combine to violate the prohibition laws.

The plea of the fallen gangster marked the climax of the government's effort to stamp out syndicated crime rule in the country's second largest city—a drive started when city and state governments seemed helpless to smash Capone's stranglehold.

Sentence of the gangster was deferred by Judge James H. Wilkerson until June 30 at 2 p. m.

The indictments carry a possible total of 34 years in prison and $90,000 in fines for an array of crimes in his infrequent court appearance.

It was understood that Capone's term would be set at two and one-half years with a stiff fine—probably $10,000.

MACDONALD AVERTS LAND TAX CRISIS

LONDON, June 16.—(UP)—The crisis that threatened the Labor government over its land tax measure was averted today when Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald accepted the amendment, as redrafted, subject to reconsideration of certain details. The threatened crisis in the House of Commons this evening therefore would pass over, he said.

The announcement meant that the amendment would go through but would not constitute a government defeat, since the Labor party would not be in the position of opposing it.

K. of C. Athletic Fields Closed As Conferences Fail

ROME, June 16.—(UP)—Despite conferences between Edward Hearn, European director of the Knights of Columbus, and Italian officials, the Knights of Columbus athletic fields remained closed today and there was no intimation as to when they might re-open.

It was understood police in several districts of Rome had offered to re-open the K. of C. fields in their districts if the Knights refused admittance to members of the disbanded Catholic clubs, but Hearn refused.

Official circles said that since the K. of C. activities were athletic and not religious, it was probable that they would remain closed because they were not affiliated with Fascist youth clubs.

ANGER OF CAPTAIN SAID TO HAVE CAUSED BOAT DISASTER

PANTAGES CASE GOES TO JURY THIS EVENING

Expect Arguments Will Be Closed By Mid-afternoon at Latest

SAN DIEGO, June 16.—(UP)—In an attempt to have the trial of Alexander Pantages and three others in the hands of the jury before nightfall, defense and prosecution attorneys began their final arguments to the jury at 9 o'clock this morning, an hour earlier than usual.

Although the prosecution still has four hours remaining for argument, District Attorney Thomas Whelan indicated one hour would suffice, making it possible for Judge L. N. Turrentine to begin instructing the jury about 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Meanwhile, the county grand jury resumed its probe of an alleged attempt to force Mrs. May Siens to testify falsely for Jesse H. Shreve, one of the defendants in the trial.

Whelan ordered the grand jury to continue its investigation despite the denial by Mrs. Siens that she had been threatened by her husband, Byron Siens, to perjure herself for Shreve.

In an affidavit filed with the county clerk, she declared the charges of attempted subornation of perjury made in her suit for divorce from Siens, were prepared on meager information and from the own ideas of her attorney, who disliked both her husband and Shreve.

Although Mrs. Siens was reported to have related her accusation before the grand jury, she declared in her affidavit that she was so hysterical and nervous at the time, she had no recollection of what she told Whelan or the inquisitorial body.

Mrs. Siens blamed her troubles on influence exerted by her attorney and Mrs. Mae Cornell of Chicago, who, she said, persuaded her to unjustly accuse her husband and Shreve.

Edgar A. Luce, attorney for Shreve, declared the jury should "throw John P. Mills out the window" for his testimony, in closing his argument. Mills was a defendant with Shreve and Pantages but pleaded guilty to a minor charge and turned state's evidence.

"If you disregard the testimony of Mills, you will find not one iota of evidence of conspiracy," Luce declared.

"Mills has been besmirched, bedraggled, impeached and contradicted in his testimony, and if I

AUSTRIAN CABINET QUILTS OVER FUNDS

VIENNA, Austria, June 16.—(UP)—The Austrian cabinet resigned today because of difficulties over solving the republic's financial difficulties.

The resignation was forecast a few hours earlier when Franz Winkler quit as minister of the interior, because of his opposition to the government's action in guaranteeing the liabilities of the Austrian creditanstalt.

San Quentin Trip Planned By Ralph For Coming Week

SACRAMENTO, June 16.—(UP)—A visit to convicts at San Quentin state prison was being planned by Governor Ralph today.

Elated over the rousing reception accorded him by more than 2500 prisoners at Folsom prison, whom he visited unexpectedly Saturday, the governor said he would make a similar trip to San Quentin.

The date of his journey to the prison has not been set, but it will probably be next week, as the governor is accepting no invitations for that week, and is free to go wherever he pleases.

PLEADS GUILTY

"Scarface" Al Capone, most notorious of all gangsters in the nation, today pleaded guilty to violation of the income tax and prohibition laws of the country.

NEWPORT NOW READY TO JOIN WATER GROUP

Will File Application for Membership in Metropolitan District

NEWPORT BEACH, June 16.—Newport Beach took definite steps to enter the Metropolitan Water district when at the meeting of the city council last night, the city clerk was instructed to file the city's membership application with the board of directors of the water district. Action by the council was unanimous.

At the previous meeting of the council the city clerk was instructed to obtain information as to how the city might enter the water district and obtain its share of the water. Last night the clerk read to the council the information he had received and the matter of making the city a part of the Metropolitan Water district was promptly carried through. Dr. Herman Heimer of the city council made the motion.

It was tacitly understood that later the city council will refer the matter to a vote of the people. The council received last night the endorsement of the chamber of commerce of the water district plan for the city, with a request that the council take the necessary steps to put Newport Beach in the district.

PROSPECTOR HELD ON MURDER COUNT

DAGGETT, Nev., June 16.—(UP)—Wanted in connection with the murder of Jack O'Brien, 50-year-old Nevada prospector, John Hall, 52, was captured here early today as he fled toward the California boundary with his wife.

According to Sheriff Joe Beate of Las Vegas, Hall shot and killed his partner in an alleged beer racket shortly before midnight and with the aid of his wife, brutally attacked Mrs. O'Brien and her daughter, Lillian, age 16.

ROLPH TO HEAR MOONEY'S PLEA FOR FREEDOM

Hearing to Be Held June 29—New York Attorney to Plead Case

SACRAMENTO, June 16.—(UP)—Leaders in the fight to free Tom Mooney, San Francisco labor leader convicted of complicity in the 1916 bombing outrage, prepared today for a hearing June 29 before Gov. James Rolph Jr., at which Attorney Frank Walsh will argue a new pardon application.

Walsh, who has served voluntarily as Mooney's counsel in the many years he has sought freedom, is scheduled to leave his New York offices for Sacramento June 22, frankly hopeful of a sympathetic hearing from California's new governor.

By a coincidence, Governor Rolph was mayor of San Francisco at the time a Preparedness day parade was bombed and 10 persons were killed. Mooney and Warren K. Billings were convicted of murder in connection with the outrage and sentenced to life imprisonment, Billings going to Folsom prison because of a previous felony conviction.

Walsh and other Mooney defense workers hoped for an attitude on the part of Governor Rolph different from that of his predecessor, Gov. C. C. Young, who held that the cases of the two men paralleled and that one could not be freed without the other.

The last pardon applications for the law Mooney may be pardoned by the governor but the application of Billings, "a two-time loser," must first pass the state supreme court. The court denied Billings a pardon, and acting on his announced views, Governor Young denied the Mooney application.

With the discovery by the Baltimore Post of John McDonald, a key witness in the original trials, the supreme court again opened pardon proceedings.

McDonald, "ready to tell everything," was brought back to San Francisco, where his appearance before the supreme court at a long drawn out hearing resulted in another denial.

Rescue workers, searching the storm-swept sea from the air, in boats and in divers' cumbersome uniforms beneath the waves, brought scores of bodies ashore, where hysterical relatives awaited their return.

They have recovered approximately 100 bodies.

Prison Physician Favors Lethal Gas For Condemned

SACRAMENTO, June 16.—(UP)—Dr. L. L. Stanley, prison physician of San Quentin state prison, was on record today in favor of the lethal gas chamber instead of the gallows for the execution of condemned murderers.

Dr. J. M. Toner, director of the state department of institutions, after examining Dr. Stanley's report to Governor Rolph, declared that he, too, was in favor of the new plan.

Dr. Stanley, who has officiated at more than 100 hangings, urged as a still more humane method of removing the condemned men from society that they be given a "sleeping portion" so they would fall into a sound sleep shortly before the deadly gas is turned into their room.

Indemnity Sought In Killing of Two Mexican Students

MEXICO CITY, June 16.—(UP)—The government was urged today to make strong representations to the United States, demanding an indemnity for the deaths of two Mexican youths near Ardmore, Okla.

The newspaper La Prensa, in an editorial, said the government should demand an indemnity "as the United States does in similar cases."

The fatal shooting of the two youths by policemen in Oklahoma has aroused intense resentment, particularly as one of the young men was a relative of President Pascual Ortiz Rubio.

Divers Take Bodies From Sunken Ship

One Hundred and Twenty of 450 Taken from Water by Searchers

SAINT NAZAIRE, France, June 16.—(UP)—Taunts by passengers that he was a "fresh water sailor" angered the captain of the pleasure boat Saint Philibert into taking his ship to sea on its last fatal voyage, inquiry into the disaster revealed today.

Excursionists whom Captain Olive had taken to the island of Noirmoutier, in the bay of Biscay, for a day's outing pressed the captain to risk the return to Nantes up the Loire river, it was said.

Against his better judgment, survivors of Sunday's disaster said in the inquiry today, the captain consented and put to sea with his barometers showing him a storm of hurricane intensity was brewing. It sank the boat with all on board and all but seven perished. The captain, on the bridge, went down with his ship. Estimate of the total dead remained uncertain today, but authorities said as many as 450 may have been lost.

The inquiry developed conflicting evidence. Several of the survivors insisted that a boiler had exploded. However, only a little floating wreckage was found and the bodies recovered were not mutilated, indications to the contrary. Divers reported finding scores of bodies together in an attitude of terror and despair.

The Saint Philibert was found lying in 35 feet of water on a rock shelf. Divers prepared to remove the bodies. They estimated 100 were still imprisoned in cabins.

Most of the victims were workers from Nantes. The bodies recovered were taken to the Duchesse Anne's castle at Nantes, including 11 victims from the same family. They will be given a mass burial, probably tomorrow.

Government experts sought to place the responsibility for the disaster, particularly trying to determine whether the boat was overloaded.

Rescue workers, searching the storm-swept sea from the air, in boats and in divers' cumbersome uniforms beneath the waves, brought scores of bodies ashore, where hysterical relatives awaited their return.

They have recovered approximately 100 bodies.

20 INJURED AS LOADED TRAIN LEAVES TRACKS

Commuters' Car Strikes Open Switch, Hits Pole and Then Freight

NEW YORK, June 16.—(UP)—A rear car of a commuters' train of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, struck an open switch at the Woodlawn station in the Bronx today, careened across the ties into a steel pillar, rebounded into the back end of a standing freight train and then brought up with a rending crash against a steel abutment.

First reports said at least one man was killed in the wreck but according to police information there were no fatalities. Injured numbered at least 20.

The passenger train was patronized principally by Manhattan business men. They were thrown from their seats as the coach careened crazily over the tracks. The car was so badly damaged that some had to be pulled out of the debris.

Commuters on the platform of the Woodlawn station became excited. Several were cut by flying glass when a caboose and a tank car, struck by the passenger, were knocked onto the platform. Police reports said they all managed to get out of the way, however.

14 MEN ARRESTED AS STRIKE LEADERS

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., June 16.—Ohio's bituminous coal mining industry was in the throes of a grim struggle for existence today as forces for and against the strike of 6000 miners mobilized for the impending crisis.

With the strike spreading slowly to include practically every mine in the area, special deputies and allied members of the American Legion armed themselves to prevent attacks on the few miners who remain at work. Fourteen men were held in the Belmont county jail as alleged strike leaders.

$2,958,544 DROP IN UTILITY TAXES

SACRAMENTO, June 15.—(UP)—Decrease of $2,958,544 in state taxes of public utility and insurance corporations for 1931 as compared with 1930, was disclosed here last night by the state board of equalization.

Taxes to be paid by these firms for the support of California's state government for the fiscal year beginning July 1, with total $39,374,760, or a reduction of 7.1 percent below the $42,333,325 paid in 1930.

Similar decreases were shown by all utility groups with the exception of telephone and telegraph companies.

BANDITS CONVICTED

VISALIA, June 16.—(UP)—Harold Vincent, 24, and Clifford Vincent, 21, were found guilty of robbing the Strathmore bank after a deliberation of less than 30 minutes by a superior court jury here yesterday.

DEDICATE MEMORIAL TO LATE PRESIDENT TODAY AT MARION CEREMONIES

MARION, O., June 16.—(UP)—The memory of the late President Harding was defended and scorn was heaped upon those of his intimates who brought his administration under a cloud in eulogies delivered at the dedication of the Harding Memorial here, with President Hoover and Former President Coolidge as chief speakers.

Breaking a silence which the White House has kept since the first charges of corruption in the Teapot Dome oil deal began to be heard even before Warren Harding's death eight years ago in August, President Hoover today declared it was proved in the courts that some of the late president's intimates "had betrayed not alone the friendship and trust of their staunch and loyal friend but they had betrayed their country."

Mr. Hoover said punishment cannot atone for such crimes.

Following are the addresses delivered by President Herbert Hoover and Former President Calvin Coolidge:

President Says Harding Was Betrayed by Those He Befriended

COOLIDGE SAYS PEOPLE CAN NOW REALIZE WISDOM OF FOUNDATION

HOOPER'S ADDRESS

We are assembled here to dedicate the tomb of Warren G. Harding, twenty-ninth President of the United States. This beautiful monument, erected by the voluntary subscriptions of the people, symbolizes their respect for his memory. It has been their response with tender remembrance to another great war in which our years come and go each of them will be marked by gatherings here of his friends and the people of a grateful democracy, for democracy has ever paid respect and tribute to those who have given her service.

Warren G. Harding came from the people. Born just at the close of the Civil War, it became his responsibility to lead the Republic in a period of reconstruction from another great war in which our democracy had again demonstrated its unalterable resolve to withstand encroachment upon its independence and to deserve the respect of the world.

Great as are the problems of the conflict the burden of statesmanship are equally difficult in the rehabilitation of social and economic life after the dislocation of war. Above all, the burden is heavy in composing the hates and prejudices which smoulder and threaten long after the formal documents of peace are signed.

As the aftermath of war our national finances were disorganized, taxes were overwhelming, agriculture and business were prostrate, and unemployment widespread. Our country was torn with injustices to those racial groups of our own citizens descended from the enemy nations. Violent bitterness

MARION, O., June 16.—(UP)—Warren G. Harding was pre-eminently fitted to serve the country in the disturbed and distraught period after the war, former President Calvin Coolidge, who succeeded him in office, said in an address today at the dedication of the Harding Memorial.

Coolidge paid high tribute to Harding's character.

"He had experience and ability, courage and patience, combined with a generous toleration and cheerful optimism that inspired confidence," the former president declared.

He sketched in outline the accomplishments of the Harding administration and concluded that "it would be difficult to find any peace time period of a little over two years ago when so much that was beneficial was accomplished as during his administration."

Coolidge praised Harding's "charming cordiality" and said that "his social graces were only an appropriate setting for a strong and rugged personality."

"To whatever position he was called," the former president said, "he demonstrated his power by work done."

"It often has been remarked that when a particular crisis in human affairs has required a certain type of ability to meet it, the right man has appeared. Whether this is because the times call the man or because there are latent powers in all of us which give those who become charged with responsibility the ability to respond by rising above themselves, it is impossible to decide."

"Perhaps it is enough to know that when the world has a work

PRESIDENT PREDICTS ERA OF UNPRECEDENTED PROSPERITY IN INDIANAPOLIS ADDRESS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 16.—(UP)—Wall Street methods came under the fire of President Hoover when in his address at the dinner of the Indiana Republican Editorial association last night he denounced "bear" raiders and suggested the possibility that stock and commodity exchanges are being used for illegitimate speculation and to intensify depressions.

Mr. Hoover brought a message of optimism to the middle west in his Indianapolis speech. He warned that the country should not look "only at the party hole in the middle of the doughnut" but instead apply itself to what he called the "American plan" to consist of the voluntary individual efforts necessary to build the new business, facilities and homes to meet needs of a 20,000,000 population increase in the next 20 years.

"The underlying forces of recovery are asserting themselves," Mr. Hoover said without making any specific predictions regarding the immediate future.

Criticism of the activities of bear raiders in Wall Street who have pressed down major stocks like U. S. Steel to below par was voiced just after he condemned those who would make "political capital out of the depression through magnifying our unemployment and losses."

Speaking in the heart of normal Republican territory which however is regarded by both sides as likely to be debatable next year, Mr. Hoover struck a brief but boldy defiant note against criticism of the Republican tariff.

"Our tariff had proved so low that our farmers were being crowded even from the domestic market in many products which by use of diversification they can substitute to take up the slack in export business," Mr. Hoover said. "From that Condition we have given him protection, and we stand upon it."

The president deplored excessive fears and apprehensions which caused a "mania for liquidation" that has reduced stocks of goods and credits "far below any necessity."

"Over 85 per cent of our families have either an income or a breadwinner employed," he said. "Our people are working hard and are resolutely engaged, individually and collectively, in overhauling and improving their methods and services. That is the fundamental method of repair to the wreckage from our boom of two years ago; it is the remedy to the impacts from abroad. It takes time, but it is going on."

"Although fear has resulted in unnecessary reduction in spending, yet these very reductions are piling up savings in our savings banks until today they are the largest in our history. Surplus money does not remain idle for long. Ultimately it is the most optimistic consumer enterprise and optimism. Consumption of retail goods in many lines is proceeding at a higher rate than last year. The harvest prospects indicate recovery from the drought and increased employment in handling the crop. Revolutions in many countries have spent themselves, and stability is on the ascendency."

to do some one appears who is able to do it . . .

"President Harding . . . has a natural gift of expression which he had developed into an art. He understood the people and the people understood him. In composing a situation, in pacifying men, he was a master."

"Those qualities which were so much needed in our own country and in the world he brought to the presidential office. When he began his term, our domestic situation was chaotic."

In tracing the accomplishments of Harding in office, Coolidge called attention to the state of political affairs at the time of Harding's inauguration.

"Credit was over extended," he said. "Commodity prices had experienced a perpendicular decline. Unemployment was extensive. Agriculture was prostrate. The national debt was enormous. War taxes prevailed. Government expenses were heavy. All kinds of business were in distress. Our foreign relations were precarious."

To meet these problems, Coolidge, President Harding summoned congress and kept it in session for nearly two years. He revived the war finance corporation to meet the credit situation. An emergency tariff law was enacted to protect our markets. Restricted immigration served to protect labor. A budget bureau was established and a system of "rigid economy" was adopted. The veterans bureau was organized. A permanent tariff bill gave protection to our markets in harmony with the new conditions of world trade.

"Surplus war materials," Coolidge said, "and treasury assets were converted into cash to pay expenses and reduce debts. Several billions of short term governmental obligations were paid or refunded. The shipping business and the railroad administration were put in the way of liquidation."

In foreign relations, "settlements of even greater magnitude were being made," the former president said. He cited settlement of the long-standing difference with Colombia, the resumption of diplomatic relations with Mexico, the appointment of a commission to negotiate a settlement of foreign debts, and the calling of the Washington conference of limitation of armaments.

"Under this benign influence," Coolidge declared, "trade revived and a better international understanding prevailed. He would be the last to claim all the credit for these accomplishments. He had the loyal and patriotic cooperation of public men within and without his own party. . . .

"Before he could see the full fruition of his policies fate brought him to a tragic end. As we can now realize the wisdom of the foundation which he laid, we are consoled by the thought that for some reason we cannot fathom his work was done, his course was finished, he was gathered to his fathers, to rest in the peace which he had desired so fervently to bestow upon all humanity."

GUEST SPEAKERS AT FOURSQUARE CHURCH

Evangelist Mac Wyatt and wife, of Houston, Texas, will be guest speakers at the Santa Ana Foursquare Gospel Tabernacle, Sycamore and Fairview streets, at the 7:30 o'clock service tonight. It was announced today by the Rev. Wilfred C. Parham, pastor, who has just returned from Vancouver, B. C.

Evangelist Wyatt is known as the "Texas Whirlwind" and has a stirring message for everyone. The Rev. Mr. Parham said. A special musical program has been arranged for the occasion and the public is invited to attend.

Council Favors Crossing Gates

A plan offered the Santa Ana city council last week by the Santa Fe railroad, whereby the gates across the tracks on East Fourth street would be replaced by wig-wag electrical signals, was turned down by the city council last night, after an investigation made by a committee during the week.

The council agreed that the service with the gates had been satisfactory in every way and that a change would not be beneficial from the city's standpoint.

SAYS HARDING BETRAYED BY MEN HE AIDED

had arisen over the treaty of Versailles.

These evil spirits aroused by war, augmented by inextinguishable losses, deep animosities, the dislocations of industry, the vast unemployment in a world still armed and armed confronted Warren G. Harding. He brought to the office of President a long experience in public affairs together with the character and spirit of which the Republic was then in need. His was a mind and character fitted for a task where the one transcendent need was the healing quality of gentleness and friendliness. It was his mission to compose the prejudices and conflicts at home, to lessen the threats of renewed wars through the world. He succeeded in these tasks. When in two years he died, new peace treaties had been made in terms which won the support of our people; tranquillity had been restored at home; employment had been renewed and a long period of prosperity had begun.

And he succeeded further. The Washington Arms Conference for the reduction and limitation of battle ships identified his administration with the first step in history toward the disarmament of the world. That step was accompanied by the momentous treaties which restored good will among the nations bordering upon the Pacific Ocean and gave to all the world inestimable blessings of peace and security.

The new and changing problems of later years had not obscured the many other constructive acts of his administration. The reorganization and reduction of the public debt, the reduction in taxation, the creation of the budget system, the better organization of industry and employment, new services to agriculture, the establishment of a permanent system of care for disabled veterans and their dependents—are but some of the enlightened measures which he inspired and advanced.

But this is neither the time nor place in historic retrospect to catalogue his many services to our country. They will be recorded and gratefully remembered by his countrymen.

Our thoughts today turn to the man himself. My first meeting with Warren Harding ever lingers in my memory. It was during the war and in a time of the greatest strain and anxiety. Late one evening, the then Senator Harding whom I had never met, came to my office. When he was announced there flashed into my mind the thought that here was some complaint or a request for some appointment. Instead the Senator said simply: "I have not come to get anything. I just want you to know that if you wish the help of a friend, telephone me what you want. I am there to serve and to help." That statement, I came to learn, was typical of him. I refer to it now because it reveals the nature of the man.

I was one of those who accompanied the late President on his fateful trip across the continent and to Alaska. He had wished to learn from the people their needs and to translate to them his own aspirations. Those who were his companions on that journey realized full well that he had oversteered even his robust strength in the grueling task which confronted him during the previous two years. And we came also to know that here was a man whose soul was being seared by a great disillusionment. We saw him gradually weaken not only from physical exhaustion but from mental anxiety. Warren Harding had a dim realization that he had been betrayed by a few of the men whom he had trusted, by men whom he had loved, by men who had been his friends. It was later proved in the courts of the land that these men had betrayed not alone the friendship and trust of their stance and loyal friend but they had betrayed their country. That was the tragedy of the life of Warren Harding.

There are disloyalties and there are crimes which shock our sensibilities, which may bring suffering upon those who are touched by their immediate results. But there is no disloyalty and no crime in all the category of human weakness which compares with the failure of probity in the conduct of public trust. Monetary loss or even the shock to moral sensibilities is perhaps a passing thing, but the breaking down of the faith of a people in the honesty of their Government and in the integrity of their institutions, the lowering of respect for the standards of honor which prevail in high places, are crimes for which punishment can never atone.

Warren Harding gave his life in worthy accomplishment for his country. He was a man of delicate sense of honor, of sympathetic heart, of transcendent gentleness of soul—who reached out for friendship, who gave of it loyally and generously in his every thought and deed. He was a man of passionate patriotism. He was a man of deep religious feeling. He was devoted to his fellow men. No revelation of his character can equal that of his own words just before his death. They were a part of his last public statement. I quote: "We need less of sectarianism, less of denominationalism, less of fanatical zeal and its exactions, and more of the Christ spirit, more of the Christ practice, and a new and abiding consecration and reverence for God. I am a confirmed optimist as to the growth of the spirit of brotherhood. . . . We do rise to heights at times when we look for the good rather than the evil in others, and give consideration to the views of all. The inherent love of fellowship is bending men together, and when envy and suspicion are vanquished, fraternity records a triumph and brotherhood brings new blessings to men and to peoples. . . . Christ was the Prince of Peace, and we who seek to render His name glorious must move in the ways of peace and brotherhood and loving service."

He gave his life in that spirit, and in that spirit we pay tribute to his memory.

The underlying forces of recovery are asserting themselves."

The president said scores of "theoretical panaceas" and "economic patent medicines" are being urged on him and many, apparently acquiring "an infection" from Russia's five-year-plan, are suggesting an advance plan for future development of the United States.

"I am able to propose an American plan to you. We plan to take care of 20,000,000 increase in population in the next 20 years. We plan to build for them 4,000,000 new and better homes, thousands of new and still more beautiful city buildings, thousands of factories, to increase the capacity of our railroads; to add thousands of miles of highways and waterways; to install 25,000,000 electrical horsepower; to grow 20 per cent more farm products. We plan to provide new parks, schools, colleges, and church for this 20,000,000 people. We plan more leisure for men and women and better opportunities for its enjoyment. We not only plan to provide for all the new generation, but we shall, by scientific research and invention, lift the standard of living and security of life to the whole people; we plan to secure a greater diffusion of wealth, a decrease in poverty, and a great reduction in crime. And this plan will be carried out if we just keep on giving the American people a chance. Its impulsive force is in the character and spirit of our people. They have already done a better job for 120,000,000 people than any other nation in all history."

DIVERS TAKE BODIES FROM SUNKEN SHIP

ately 120 bodies, many of which were trapped in the cabins of the pleasure steamer as it sank during the mouth of the Loire river Sunday evening.

Rescue work was stopped during the night, due to heavy seas, but was resumed today. Charles de Chappedelaine, minister of merchant marine, announced he would send to Brest for machinery and boats to raise the Saint Philbert. He conferred with nautical experts. An inquiry also was ordered to seek to learn whether the captain of the doomed pleasure craft—crowded with passengers had handled his ship wisely in the face of the rising storm which turned it over at dusk Sunday. It sank in three minutes.

Nearly 100 families lost relatives in the disaster, described as the worst maritime catastrophe in recent French history. Most of the victims were workers from Nantes and Nazaire. It was learned that about 50 small children were on board for whom no tickets had been required—and that they were not counted in the original estimates of the steamship offices which said 467 persons had sailed on the excursion down the bay.

Jean Pinguet, one of the few survivors, told how he kept his wife afloat for an hour before he lost consciousness and she slipped from his grasp. Pinguet was unconscious when picked up.

HEARING CONTINUED

Continuance of the hearing of creditors of L. Dewey Dutton, bankrupt, was granted today by J. B. Tarver, referee in bankruptcy on petition of the trustee. This continuance was requested to enable the trustee to sell property listed as assets by Dutton.

Duce who died Sunday morning at the Anaheim sanitarium, have been announced for Wednesday at 2 p. m. from the Stone Funeral home on Grand avenue and West Eighth street, Buena Park. The Rev. W. W. Hart, of Inglewood, former pastor of the Buena Park Congregational church will conduct the services. Pallbearers will be co-workers of Mr. Stone when he was employed in the machine shop at the Standard Oil tank farm at La Mirada and include A. M. Newton, Fred Willard, Pete Durgan, L. Gear, J. Rittenbush and E. Walsh. Interment will be made at Loma Vista cemetery.

FACES TERM OF 34 YEARS BEHIND BARS

Capone took his place before Judge Wilkerson, his head slightly bowed.

Six policemen stood in a circle about him. Deputy marshals were distributed around the room, which was packed to the aisles by curious persons who craned their necks to get a glimpse of the gangster.

Dwight Green, assistant district attorney in charge of the income tax, faced the gangster and asked in legal terms:

"Did you violate the United States income laws in 1924?"

Capone dropped his gaze, and hesitated a moment. The courtroom was silent. Then he said hardly above a whisper:

"Yes, I'm guilty."

Not a stir was heard in the courtroom as the gangster admitted that he was in effect out of the crime picture he has so long dominated.

As he made the admission, Capone wet his lips and raised on his toes.

Green then went through the same questioning for the years 1925, 26, 27, 28 and 29. Each time the gangster, facing the only power that ever had threatened him with a stiff sentence, said in a low tone:

"Guilty."

Then Victor Larnie, first assistant district attorney, who was partly responsible for bringing the "worst gangster of all time" before the bar of justice, took up the questioning.

Council Opposes Change In Names Of Local Streets

Petitioners to the city council asking that Vance street be renamed Ninth street and Stafford street called Eighth street, learned last night that the city council frowns on such a change.

The matter which came up before the board last week, was referred to Councilman A. C. Hasenjaeger, who reported back last night that the plan was not feasible in his opinion, in that the streets, which do not run parallel with other streets running east and west, would be likely to cause trouble in later years when they are extended.

The original petition was signed by a number of property owners on Stafford and Vance streets.

DRAW $50 FINE

ORANGE, June 15.—Felipe Garcia was arraigned in the court of Judge A. W. Swayze Monday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of possession and paid a fine of $50. A charge of carrying concealed weapons was dismissed when it was testified that the man was taking a revolver to a store to dispose of it to provide funds for his family.

were a member of the jury, I would throw him out of the window."

"He has pleaded to a minor charge, and his testimony, therefore, was purchased by immunity, which is better than money."

"And I also wish to call to your attention the squandering of the tax money of Los Angeles county in this case. Neither Lydia Nitto nor Helen Livingston, chief accusers, were held legally, yet the district attorney's office of Los Angeles spent $500 keeping them in comfort and luxury to make sure of their testimony."

"If these girls had been legally held, they would have been in juvenile hall under a court order, and their testimony then, you may be sure, would not have been to the liking of the district attorney."

William Jobelmann, who with Mrs. Olive Clark Day, also is a defendant, took the floor to argue in his own behalf. He was not represented by counsel during the trial.

Mrs. Day and Jobelmann were asserted to have brought the two girls here from Los Angeles to attend the party which resulted in charges of contributing to the delinquency of minors being placed against the four defendants.

SEEK FINGERPRINTS

McPHERSON, Kan., June 15.—(UP)—City authorities today sent to the war department at Washington the fingerprints of a man who suffered a paralytic stroke in the street here recently.

Unable to talk, he was partly identified from letters in his pockets as Capt. Walter Hopkins, of Tucson, Ariz. The letters indicated he was a veteran of the Spanish-American war.

A WORD OF COMFORT

There is no sense in blurring the fact that the burdens and problems which you face are more complex and difficult and ominous than any you have known before. You are often perplexed and sick at heart and at your wit's end.

But remember too that you have never yet failed to receive strength relative for your task. Power has come from somewhere, and you know that it was sent from God.

Draw near to Him and face the future without fear or doubts. He did not bring you thus far to desert you. He will carry you on to the end; and then you enter into the joyous service of Paradise.

Calvin Coolidge Says

BY CALVIN COOLIDGE
Former President of the United States
NORTHAMPTON, June 15.—One of the most interesting and encouraging developments of the past 15 years has been the citizens military training camps. At the outset they were not considered any too favorably by the government. Now they have become an institution.

While a considerable value attaches to them as centers of military instruction their scope is much broader. They are really schools of good citizenship. The chief weakness of military life is that it tends to become purely professional and detached. The remedy is the citizen soldier. When he appears authority diminishes. Instead of being something to be distrusted and feared the soldier becomes a neighbor and friend. The uniform is considered a badge of protection. Although but 37,500 can be taken into camp this year over 76,000 already have applied for admission. The great significance of this is that our people are not looking to mercenaries for protection but are determined to protect themselves. In disciplining the body and mind, in teaching practical patriotism the camps fill an important place. They demonstrate the power of the people, with or without the approbation of governments, to act in emergency and manage their own affairs.

DRUGGIST GETS $300 FINE ON LIQUOR CHARGE

J. Fred Parsons, Santa Ana druggist, pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of liquor, in the Santa Ana police court yesterday and was fined $300, which was paid.

He was arrested several days ago by Santa Ana police officers, and at that time was booked at the county jail on a charge of sale of liquor. This charge, however, was changed to possession before the case came into court yesterday. Had it remained sale the case would have been taken to the justice court, instead of the Santa Ana court, it was pointed out.

Rufus Nieblas, whose wife was charged with possession of liquor, following the finding of some 10 gallons of wine and a gallon of whiskey in their home Saturday night, came into court yesterday and took responsibility for the liquor. He was arrested and charged with possession. Later making bail of $400 for his appearance in court later in the week. The woman is still being held.

TWO HELD ON BOOZE COUNTS AFTER CRASH

Two men today were in the county jail, one charged with possession of liquor and driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor and the other with being drunk, following an automobile accident on Ocean avenue, one and one-half miles west of Garden Grove, at 8 o'clock last night.

Sheriff Logan Jackson and Deputy Fred Humiston made the arrests after a call had been received at the sheriff's office from residents of the neighborhood. No one was reported hurt in the accident.

D. O. Newton, 33, driver of the car, was booked on the driving and possession charge. The other man was Jim Simmons, who faces the drunk charge. Both said they lived in Long Beach. In their car officers reported they found a complete outfit for the making of beer, including bottles and caps and other equipment.

The Newton car is said to have sideswiped a car operated by J. A. McCormack of Huntington Beach, knocking off a fender. Both prisoners said they were returning to Long Beach from Las Vegas, N. M., in order to appear on a possession charge in the courts there, Jackson reported.

SCHOOL BOARDS TO CONFER ON JAYCEE FUTURE

Members of the Santa Ana and Fullerton boards of education having control of the two junior colleges now operating in the county will hold a conference tonight in the offices of the Santa Ana board on the problem of handling increased enrollment at the two institutions and what steps to take in the future.

The meeting was arranged last week during the regular session of the Santa Ana board after the matter had been suggested to members of the Santa Ana board by members of the Fullerton board.

In the past, meetings of the two boards and discussions of the mutual problems faced by the two institutions led to a request for a county-wide educational survey, to be financed by the board of supervisors. This project was endorsed by the principal of every high school in the county, but was refused by the supervisors at that time on the recommendation of R. P. Mitchell, who was then county superintendent of schools. The survey could be completed at a cost of approximately $5000, it is estimated.

The position was taken at the time the matter was presented to the board that facts were necessary for guidance of the future educational program for the county so that it would be the most effective and of greatest service to the entire county.

The conference tonight is scheduled to begin at 7:30 o'clock.

CLAIM 700 PERSONS SENT TO DR. TONER FOR PORK BARREL JOBS UNDER GOVERNOR ROLPH

Here is the third of the series of articles on the Rolph spoils system in California and which is being printed daily in the Los Angeles Record and reproduced in The Register—(Editor).

Before we draw the tragic, yet amusing, picture of former Sheriff Claude S. Smith running the Whittier state school, it is important to inquire how he got there.

The Citizens' Committee headed by Elmer R. Murphy, of Pasadena, conducted a more than casual investigation of the subject.

It was found that Dr. J. M. Toner, Governor Rolph's director of institutions, was a much harassed man. Not less than 700 persons, it learned, had been sent to Toner with "instructions" to find them jobs in the 14 state institutions.

This statement, of course, is challenged by the governor's friends but the number of office seekers who besiege Toner's quarters in the Biltmore hotel whenever he is in Los Angeles indicates that much is expected of him.

In order to make way for these new state employees old employees had to be gotten rid of.

According to the citizens' committee members, the Rolph administration made use of a time-honored device. Early in January Owen F. Owen, who had been Rolph's campaign manager at Anaheim, was placed on the state payroll as a sort of "super-snooper."

In company with a landscape gardener named Klinger who had been discharged from Whittier, Owen, it is charged, began looking up and interviewing other discharged and disgruntled employees and taking their affidavits wherever possible.

"I always work with affidavits," Dr. Toner, the new director of institutions, is said to have explained. At any rate Dr. Toner obtained a number of affidavits assailing K. J. Scudder's regime at Whittier. Scudder was not allowed to know the contents of these affidavits and none of his friends was allowed to see them. The documents were presented to Governor Rolph.

"We are informed," the citizens' committee says, "that in an effort to make a case against the various other institution heads who are slated to go to the state letter files at Sacramento are being searched for complaints from any of the relatives of former inmates."

The plan, according to the committee, is to defend the dismissals by "muddying up the waters" with affidavit countercharges.

Curiously enough, as the committee observed, Dr. Toner on his first and second visits to the Whittier state school expressed his approval of the way it was being run. During his second visit Dr. Toner finally approached the subject closest to his heart, according to the committee.

"I will send you some of the boys to put on the job," he is reported to have told Superintendent Scudder.

"I will put your men to work only if there are vacancies and if the men are suitable for the positions," Scudder is said to have replied.

On his next trip Dr. Toner demanded Scudder's resignation. Scudder refused to resign and was discharged. The way was open for the former sheriff of Jasper county.

Superintendent Scudder issued the following statement: "As superintendent of an educational institution and as legal guardian of more than 700 young boys, victims of adult negligence and social maladjustment, I could take no other stand than I did against political inroads upon a humanitarian program."

"The law providing for the organization of the Whittier state school provides for a junior state school, an educational institution for boys. It should in no way be classed as a Fine Watery Pimples Spread Over Face. Healed by Cuticura.

"My trouble started with a rough, scaly place on my face, then it started to spread all over my face and would break out with fine, watery pimples. At times it would itch terribly and then if I rubbed my face it would burn and sting. I saw an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample of each. I purchased more and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment every trace of my trouble had disappeared. I was healed." (Signed) Miss Merle Ferguson, R. F. JELLIES AND JAMS MADE AT HOME ARE GOOD INVESTMENT

Every housewife has the chance to "get ahead" next winter by putting up fruit now. Sugar is low in price, and there are always bargain days for each fruit and berry. A little concentrated effort as each fruit crop reaches its peak will result in a cupboard well stocked with canned fruits, jellies, jams and relishes from which one may draw freely throughout the winter.

Since fruit belongs in the diet and should appear in some form at every meal, the economy of a home supply is readily apparent. Cane sugar is ideal for all kinds of canning. Preserve with refined cane sugar. The Sugar Institute.

Consider your Adam's Apple!!* Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants "Reach for a LUCKY instead"

What is the effect of irritation upon the throat? Here are the exact words of a noted authority retained by us to study this question. He writes—

"First, the vocal chords, on account of their delicacy of structure, would be the first tissues to give indication of irritation, evidenced by the huskiness of the smoker's voice, the result of relaxed tension and slower vibration of the vocal chords. The next site of irritation would be the tissues adjacent to the vocal chords comprising the larynx, therefore the general focal point of the irritation would be in the voice box represented externally by the Adam's Apple."

So—Consider your Adam's Apple. Be careful in your choice of cigarettes. Don't rasp your throat with harsh irritants. Reach for a LUCKY instead.

SANTA FE ROAD GIVES SUPPORT TO PRADO SITE

Approval of the flood control and water conservation report for Orange county which was submitted to the supervisors last April by the board of engineers headed by G. A. Elliott, of San Francisco, was transmitted to the board today from the Santa Fe railroad in a letter from its general manager, W. K. Etter.

The communication states that the company believes the upper or Prado site, which is recommended in the new report, is the more desirable and proper location for the dam and reservoir on the Santa Ana river and expresses the hope that the recommendations as submitted will be adopted by the board. The text of the communication follows:

"My attention recently has been directed to the report made by the engineering committee consisting of Messrs. Elliott, Etchiverry and Means, concerning the matter of flood control for Orange county, and I happily note the committee recommends the adoption of the upper or Prado site, which in our opinion, is the more desirable and proper location, as indicated to you in my letter of December 23, 1929. "May I express the hope that in considering the matter you may find it consistent and proper to adopt the recommendations as submitted to you."

PRIZES TAKEN BY S. A. DOGS AT EXHIBITION

Two prize-winning Pekinese dogs, owned by Santa Ana women, gleaned additional honors yesterday at the Pekinese specialty show held on the grounds of Beverly Hills hotel. Lay's Dan De, owned by Mrs. T. J. Neal, entered in the limited red class, won second place and a special prize given by a dog food company. Dan De won the Hopkins silver trophy at the Ambassador specialty show last year.

Wee Son Ne Woo, Mrs. Ludy Schaffer's beautiful platinum biscuit dog entered in the bred by exhibitor class, won first prize and a silver trophy awarded by the Northern California Pekinese club.

These two Santa Ana dogs have been winning blue ribbons with a regularity that is speeding them along the way to championships. They will soon be on exhibition in the windows of the Neal Sporting Goods store. Date for the exhibition will be announced later.

It must not be imagined that the Pekinese is simply a lap dog of no redeeming qualities, according to fanciers. He is a real dog; just as full of fun and frolic as the most vivacious terrier that ever stole his master's slippers; just as keen on the trail as any hunting dog that ever went afield and just as understanding as any breed that has ever been the companion of man.

Dr. R. A. Cushman, one of Santa Ana's leading dog fanciers, is the proud possessor of a number of trophies won by his two-year-old wire haired fox terrier, "Desert Scout," at the Western Fox Terrier Breeders' association ninth annual specialty show at the Beverly Hills hotel Sunday.

The dog, which was bred and raised at Dr. Cushman's kennels, went winner's dog in the final judging and won trophies as the best American bred dog, best wire haired dog and best of opposite sex in the show. The trophies which were won by the dog included a large silver and gold cup, silver tray and reading lamp.

Other awards have been won by "Desert Scout" this year at shows in San Francisco and Long Beach. A wire haired Fox terrier pup which Dr. Cushman had entered in the Beverly Hills show, won second place in its class.

New Delhi is now the capital of India. It is a new city laid out near Delhi and patterned somewhat after Washington, D. C. The old city is now generally referred to as old Delhi.

$111,744 INVOLVED IN DAMAGE ACTIONS

A damage action in which conflicting claims totaling $111,744.75 are at issue, got under way in the court of Superior Judge James L. Allen today in trial of the suit brought by H. H. Harris against Seward Carlson, et al.

Harris asked $27,100 for personal injuries and damages suffered in an auto collision on West Seventeenth street about one mile west of the Garden Grove road on January 11, which he charged was due to negligence and carelessness of the defendants.

Carlson and his wife then filed answers denying their responsibility for the accident and cross-complaints in which they asked the court for judgments of $86,644.75 against Harris, of which $50,000 was for injuries suffered by Mrs. Carlson.

FOOD FACTORY PLANNING ON LOCAL PLANT

Plans for the bringing to Santa Ana of the Campbell's Food Ltd. factory, makers of breakfast foods, were revealed at the unofficial meeting of the Santa Ana council yesterday afternoon, when C. L. Burton, representative of the concern, now located at Yakima, Wn., asked the council to re-zone that district at the corner of North Flower street and the Santa Ana boulevard, so that a factory could be erected.

Details of the new enterprise were kept as secret as possible by Burton, who declared that his concern wanted no publicity on its plans, and he refused to discuss details of the building, the amount it would cost and any future plans of the company, although he exhibited architects' drawings of the building to be erected, provided the council changed the zoning.

The company is capitalized at $250,000 now, it is understood, and it also was learned that the company expects to employ a number of workmen at the start with an idea of building the payroll to some 500 persons within three years.

The council, after listening to the plans in a joint meeting with the city planning commission, appointed a committee composed of Councilmen Hasenjaeger, McBride and Witmer to work with a committee composed of William Tway, Cliff Greenleaf and Asa Hoffman, representing the planning commission. This committee will report back at the next meeting of the council.

The council was requested to re-zone some nine acres of land at Flower street and the Santa Ana boulevard, of which the food factory expects to utilize approximately two acres, it was said.

CORONA DEL MAR SEEKS FERRY LINE

NEWPORT BEACH, June 16.—Corona del Mar residents want a ferry service connecting that part of the city of Newport Beach with the Balboa section. A petition signed by 77 of them was read at last night's council meeting and referred to a special committee consisting of Councilman Hilmer and City Engineer Patterson.

More than 300 property owners and residents were said to be represented in letters and petitions to the council asking that a permit be refused to the oil refinery in West Newport. These were laid over until the next meeting.

At the request of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce the council made an appropriation for fireworks on the night of July 4 at the Newport and Balboa piers.

Anaheim Owls Hoot As Police Think

ANAHEIM, June 16.—That wise old bird, the owl, may have hooted himself out of a home in the top of a tall palm tree in front of the home of R. K. Marland, at 310 North Philadelphia street, Anaheim, police declare. Police yesterday answered a call to investigate the matter and saw a nest of owls in the tree. Numerous complaints have come in to the station stating that the birds have kept the whole neighborhood awake many nights for a long time. Police are trying to figure out a way to make the owls keep quiet or make them move. It is believed that the only way to keep them quiet is to make them move but the tree is very tall and quite inaccessible so there may be difficulty in the matter.

PASADENA PLANS TOURNAMENT FLOAT

NEWPORT BEACH, June 16.—Pasadena will enter a float in the 1931 Newport-Balboa Tournament of Lights, scheduled for July 18 on Newport bay. It was announced today by E. I. Moore, chairman of the general committee of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce which is sponsoring the event. The Pasadena entry is one of the first large floats to enter this year, according to Harry Welch, manager of the fete.

Long Beach, which was a prize winner last year, is also expected to enter again, while two boats are expected from San Clemente, which had one in last year's parade. Huntington Beach is another coast city which is considering a float. The city of Newport Beach, which had an elaborate float last year, will be similarly represented this year.

The Newport Harbor Service club, the West Newport Improvement association, the Boy Scouts and the Newport Harbor Yacht club are among the local organizations which have already decided to be represented in this year's "lights."

Church Program Given By Children

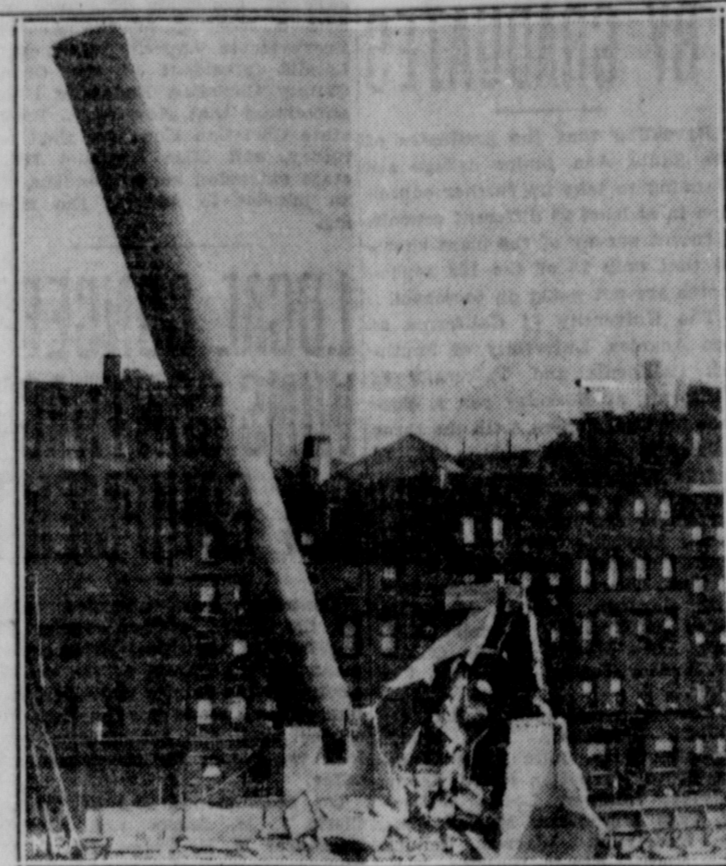

WESTMINSTER, June 16.—"Following Jesus" was the theme of the Children's day program presented Sunday morning by the several departments of the Presbyterian Sunday school under the supervision of the class teachers. The program was as follows: Song, school; opening prayer; Scripture selection; features by beginners' department; features by the primary department; song, school; "Walking With Jesus;" Cradle Roll department, Mrs. Carter; "Following Jesus," reading and song by Mrs. Snadell's class; remarks by pastor; music by Marvin Penhall, Billy Rose and Oscar Burrison; song, junior department, "Tell the Glad News; home department, Mrs. Cieson; "Skies Are Blue in Summer," song by Mrs. Melvin's class; missionary dramatization, "At the End of the Rainbow."

At the evening service hour, Stanley Jacobson of the Berkeley Baptist Divinity school, occupied the pulpit in the absence of the pastor, the Rev. Mr. Carter, who was assisting in a service at a Long Beach church that evening.

Tests of waters that flow from springs in Stone Mountain, Ga., have shown that they contain almost twice the radio active properties of Germany's most famous radium-fed springs.

PIPE DOWN!

It's not another "leaning tower." The huge chimney seen here was on its way down when this unusual photo was taken. Blasting of the tall pipe and demolition of the surrounding buildings was the first step in the construction of a huge new terminal in New York.

CHAPTER HERE TO SPONSOR CONTESTS

Entries in two contests conducted by the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution will be sponsored this year by the Santa Ana chapter according to an announcement by Mrs. Cotton Mather, historian for the local group.

"I WAS weak and run down and couldn't work much. Some days I was in bed all day... on account of female weakness. My cousin recommended your Vegetable Compound to me and I began taking it right away. I sure feel like a new woman. Work all day and am stronger and feel fine now. I have only taken 3 bottles but I found relief in the first one I took. I recommend it to any woman who suffers as I did."—Mrs. C. E. Hawk, R. R. No. 2, Promise City, Iowa.

ROBBERS' ROOST

by ZANE GREY

INSTALLMENT 14

Hays stood out in front of the cabin, bareheaded, his legs spread apart as if to anchor himself solidly, his hands at his hips, his sandy hair standing up ruffled like a mane.

"Huh! The boss isn't mad. Oh, no!" soliloquized Jim. "Small wonder. Smoky's outfit has busted loose or is going to—Well, now, I've a hunch there's luck in this for me."

Jim turned off into the corral, and took his time unsaddling. Jim made for the bridge then and crossing, looked up to see the horses of Smoky's outfit standing, bridled down, and the riders up on the porch. Jim mounted the steps.

Hank Hays sat upon the bench, his shaggy head against the wall, his pale eyes blazing at the new comers leaning on the porch rail. Smoky was lighting a cigarette, not in the least perturbed, but his eyes had a hard, steely gleam. Brad Lincoln sat back on the rail, eyeing the chief with a sardonic grin. Mac appeared more than usually ghoulish; Bridges and Sparrow Hawk Latimer betrayed extreme nervousness.

"Hello, men. What's the mix? Am I in or out?" returned Jim, sharply. "I reckon you're in," replied Slocum. "Hank is the only one thet's out. Hyar, Jim, ketch this. He drew a dark green bundle from a bulging pocket and tossed it to Jim—a large, heavy roll of greenbacks tied with a buckskin throng.

"Yours on the divvy, Jim," went on Smoky. "Don't count it now. There's a heap of small bills inside an' if you untie them hyar there'll be a mess. But it's a square divvy to the last dollar."

"That's a hefty roll, Smoky, for a man to get for nothing," observed Jim, dubiously.

Jim then noticed that a roll of bills, identical with the one he had just received, lay on the floor.

"You double-crossed me!" burst out Hays at length.

"Wall, thet's accordin' to how you look at it," retorted Slocum. "Things came up at Grand Junction. We seen some of Heeseman's outfit. They're onto us, or will be pronto. So we jest took a vote, an' every one of us stood for one big drive instead of small drives. An' we made it. Your buyers swore they was short of money an' would pay twelve dollars a head. Talk about robbers! Wall, I took that an' said I liked it."

"You disobeyed orders."

"Put it up to Jim, hyar. What do you say, Jim?"

Thus appealed to, Jim addressed Hays point-blank:

"Smoky's right. If you meant to clean out Herrick that was the way to do it."

"Aw—shore, you'd side with them."

"I wouldn't do anything of the kind if I thought they were wrong," retorted Jim, angrily. Here was a chance to inflame Hays that he jumped at. If the robber could be drawn into a fight, when his own men were against him, the situation for the Herricks could be made easier for the present.

"You'd better shet up."

"I won't shet up, Hays. Someone has to tell you. And I'm that fellow. There's no hand out against you in this outfit. Never heard of a bunch of riders who'd work like dogs while the boss was twiddling his thumbs and talking mysterious."

"I ain't ready to leave Star Ranch an' now I'll have to!"

"Why ain't you ready?" queried Smoky, curiously. "Our work's all done. We've cleaned out the ranch, except for a few thousand head. We've got the long green. You ought to be tickled to death."

"I'm not through here," replied the robber.

"Smoky, why don't you ask Hays what this mysterious deal is?" queried Jim, sarcastically.

From a cornered lion Hays degenerated into a cornered rat. Jim sank a little in his boots while his upper muscles corded.

"Hank, what's got into you?" queried Smoky.

"Smoky, the boss is up a tree," said Jim, caustically. "He means to rob Herrick all right. But that's only a blind. It's the girl!"

"That gold-headed gurl we seen you drivin' hyar?"

"Yes, Herrick's sister."

"Haw! Haw! So thet's what's eatin' you, Hank?"

Hays had reached his limit and probably, but for Smoky's mirth, would have started hostilities. He hesitated, but there was a deadly flare in the eyes he had fixed on Wall.

Smoky got between them. "See hyar, Hank. So thet's the deal? An' you'd do fer pore Jim hyar jest because he's onto you?—Wal, if you're so keen as thet to draw on somebody, why, make it me. I started this. I dragged Jim into it. An' I ain't goin' to let you take it out on him."

"Jim's right, Smoky, you're right," he declared, hoarsely. "I'm bullheaded. An' I've lost my bull head over Herrick's sister."

"There, spoke up like a man," declared Smoky, heartily relieved. "Why didn't you come thet clean long ago? Neither Jim nor me nor any of us blame you fer admirin' thet gurl. And if you'd gone crazy, an' dragged her away into the brakes with us, we'd quit you cold."

Hays bent to pick up the roll of bills.

"Fall to, men, I've got to do some tall thinkin'," he said.

Before they were half finished with their supper Hays entered.

"We're shakin' the dust of Star Ranch tonight," he said, deliberately. "Jack up an' leave at once, I'll come later. If I don't meet you at Smoky's camp at sundown I'll meet you shore at midday in thet cedar grove above the head of Red Canyon."

No one asked any more questions or made any comments. Whatever they thought about Hays' peculiar way of leading his band they kept to themselves. Jim Wall was greatly relieved, still he concluded that Hays must abandon any plot he might have concocted toward Herrick's sister. At any rate whatever was in Hays' mind Jim could not further risk alienating him or his men. Jim would have to ride out with them. If he stayed behind to spy upon Hays or frustrate any attempt he might make to call upon the Herricks, he would have to kill Hays.

Dusk was mantling the valley when Jim went out. Under the bench the shadows were dark. From the shelter of the pines he looked for Hays, expecting to find him standing guard. But the robber was not on the porch. He was stalking to and fro along the brook, and he was no more watching for Heeseman than was Jim. His bent form, his stride, his turning at the end of his beat, his hands folded behind his back—all attested to the mood of a gloomy, abstracted, passion-driven man.

Whereupon Jim repaired to his covert, rolled his bed and made a pack of his other belongings. What to do with the two packages of bills, this last of which was large and clumsy for his pockets, was a puzzle. By dividing the two into four packets he solved it. Then he carried his effects down to the cabin. All was cheery bustle there. The men were glad to get away from Star Ranch. They talked of the robbers' roost Hays had allowed them, of idle days to eat and drink and gamble, of the long months in hiding.

"Wal, you all ready?" queried Hays, appearing in the doorway.

"Yep, an' bustin' to go."

"On second thought I'd like one of you to stay with me. How about you, Latimer?"

"All right," declared Sparrowhawk.

In a few more minutes all the men having were mounted. The pack animals, with packs gray against the darkness, straggled up the trail.

"Wait at your camp till sundown," said Hays, conclusively. "An' if I'm not there I'll meet you about noon shore at the head of Red Canyon."

Without more words or ado Smoky led off behind the pack horses, and the five riders followed.

Once across the brook all horses took a brisk trot. Jim Wall looked back. Then he saw a bright light on the bench. That was from Herrick's house. An unfamiliar sensation, like a weight of cold lead in his breast, baffled Jim. He knew he was glad never to see Helen Herrick again.

The spring night waxed cold as the men were mounted, and the riders took up to the slope.

About midnight Smoky turned the pack animals up the slope into the woods, and after a mile of rough going emerged into an open canyon head.

"Hyar we air," said Smoky. "Throw things an' git to sleep. I'll stand first guard."

Evidently the horses were not to be turned loose. Jim overheard Brad Lincoln offer to bet that Hays would not show up at sunrise.

Jim unrolled his bed beside a rock, and pulling off his boots and unbuckling his gun belt he crawled under the blanket.

Crack of ax and Happy Jack's voice pierced his slumber, both recognized before he opened his eyes. The sun was topping the eastern range. Jim sat up, stretched, and reaching for his boots he gazed around. The camp was an open draw with level floor narrowing to a timber belt below. Behind rose shrubby limestone walls, in a crack of which poured a gush of water. The men were stirring, two around the camp fire and others among the horses.

"Wal, long past sunup," said Slocum, as he approached the fire. "Who was it bet Brad that Hank wouldn't show up?"

"Nobody," replied Lincoln.

"Jim, suppose you take your rifle an' sneak down an' knock over a deer," suggested Smoky.

Three hundred yards down the slope Jim emerged into the open. There were no riders on the windings, white trail.

Stealthily working back into the timber he soon espied two deer about sixty paces distant, long ears erect. He killed the buck standing.

Upon his return to camp Smoky greeted him with a grin.

"How far to Red Canyon?" asked Jim.

"I don't know. About fifteen miles. Don't you remember thet heavy grove of cedars leadin' down into a red hole?"

"Reckon I do. If Hays joins us there it'll mean he comes by another trail, doesn't it?"

"If so you figger he might not? Course he'd come around the mountain, or mebbe over another pass. He shore knows trails thet we don't."

"Aw, Hank'll show up on time."

"Wonder if he stayed back to plug Heeseman? He hates that rustler."

In less than an hour the riders were on the move down the mountain. Packing on the deer Jim had slain occasioned a little delay for all, because Smoky kept them close together. At the edge of the timber belt he halted them again while he peeped out to reconnoiter. Then he called: "Come hyar, a couple of you long-sighted fellers."

They all rode out to join him, where he sat his horse, pointing to a faint blue on the purple valley floor. "Is thet dust?"

Most of the riders inclined to the opinion that it was just haze.

"Five miles or more back it hard to make out," spoke up Jim. "If this was my range I'd say it wasn't haze or smoke."

"Wish I had Hank's glasses. My eyes are no good any more fer long shots. Wal, let's mossy."

Nevertheless Jim noted that Smoky led to the left, across the ravine, along the edge of the timber belt over a ridge, and then down to the trail. He pushed the pack horses at a trot. Far ahead a black fringe of cedars thickened to a grove above a red jagged line, which was the canyon head where the riders had a rendezvous with Hays.

"Jeff, you hang right hyar," he said, "an' keep your eyes peeled on thet back trail. I ain't so shore thet gray patch back on the valley was haze. It sort of moved to me. An' there wasn't a lick of wind. Wal, from round this corner you can easy see the cedar grove where we'll hang up fer the boss. An' if you ketch sight of any more'n a couple riders on the back stretch you come ridin' hell bent for else-tion. Don't stay long after noon."

Perhaps another five miles down the slope lay their objective to which they headed. The gait was slowed a little, if anything, yet in somewhat over an hour the riders arrived at the cedars. Jim recalled the place, but it was not, as he had imagined, the point where Hays had led up out of the brakes of the Dirty Devil.

The hour was still some time before noon. Smoky scanned the slope to the south and east. It would not have been possible to see riders at any distance, as the rocks, brush, ridges and washes intervened profusely.

"What'll we do, Smoky? Throw the packs or not?" queried one of the riders.

"Dog-gone! If I know," replied Slocum, peevishly. "It's a rummy deal. Hot as hell now an' gettin' better. I forgot to ask Hank. Reckon you'd better herd the hosses an' we'll wait. I'll keep a lookout fer the boss."

Jim tied his horse in the shade of a cedar, and climbed a jumble of rocks so he could command a better view. Almost at once he sighted riders coming down a wash about a mile away, and he had opened his mouth to shout the good tidings when something checked him.

He rubbed his eyes and looked again. Three riders! Assuming that two of them were Hays and Latimer, who could the third be? They disappeared behind a corner of bank. Jim sank down in a cold sweat. Perhaps these men were Indians or strangers from Hankville or prospectors. But he had not seen any pack animals.

After a long, anxious watch he saw the three reappear in the wash, considerably closer. The one in the middle rode a gray horse and otherwise contrasted sharply with the dark mounts and dark clothes of the other two. A second time the trio disappeared. Smoky was peering about in a desultory manner, but he was too low down to sight the riders. Jim was now shaking.

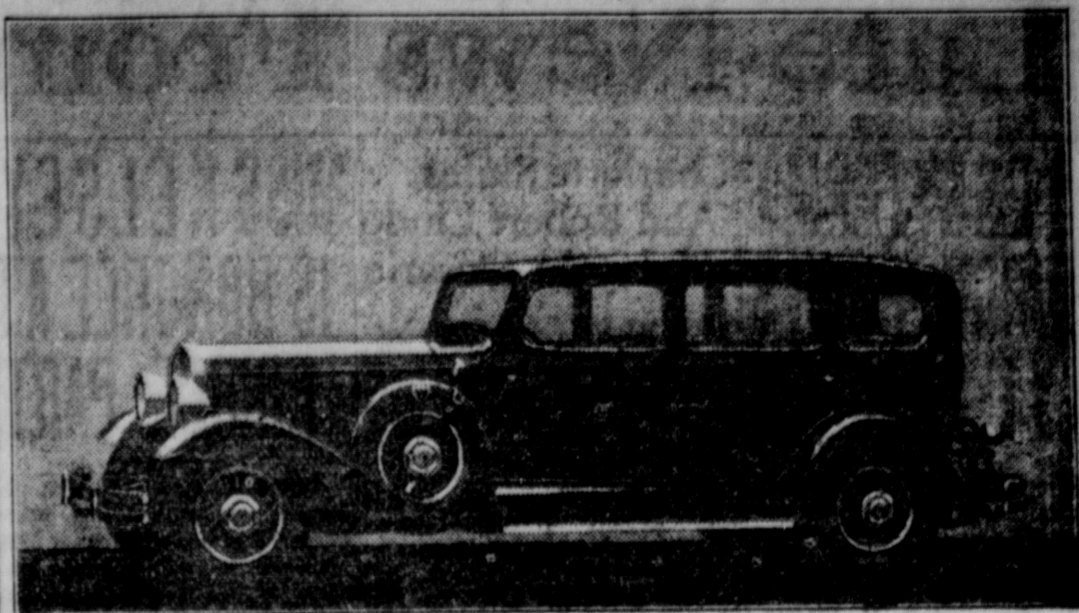

An awful premonition attacked him. He had met it and almost overcome it as another unaccountable attack of nerves when the foremost horseman emerged from behind a bank. He recognized the stalwart figure, the wide, black sombrero, the poise in the saddle. That man was Hank Hays.

Jim scarcely dared shift his gaze back to the second rider, but he was irresistibly forced to. A slight figure in tan, drooping in the saddle!

PIANIST GIVES PROGRAM FOR WOMAN'S CLUB

ORANGE, June 16.—The last program of the year for members of the Orange Woman's club was given yesterday afternoon by the club chorus which presented Madame Welma Souvageol, of Santa Ana, concert pianist, who rendered several classical numbers.

The stage was beautifully decorated and tall baskets of zinnias in rust and red shades were placed at each side. A handsome and unusually large Paisley shawl was draped over the table which centered the stage. The flowers were grown in the garden of Mrs. Walter Kogler. The shawl is the property of Mrs. Irving Goldfeder.

As Madame Souvageol played she gave an interesting and brief sketch of each composition, telling something of the composer. Madame Souvageol has been playing in public since the age of five years and played for Paderewski at the age of 12, studying abroad and teaching later.

OCEAN CRUISE IS THEME FOR RADIO FROLIC

Ship Ahoy. Tonight the KREG artists will sail for parts unknown on the regular Tuesday theme frolic broadcast from the local station from 8 to 10 o'clock. Tonight's frolic introduces a new idea to local fans, starting a world cruise that will continue for the next four or five weeks. Freddie Dean, Ruth Murdoch and Ted Newcomb, popular KREG entertainers, have prepared a tour that is filled with laughter and melody.

Despite the announcement made last week that Freddie and Ruth were severing their connections with the local station they have been prevailed upon by popular demand to continue their broadcasts for a short time at least. All the KREG favorites will be heard in featured roles tonight. Ruth Murdoch plays a dual role, that of a newly married girl on her honeymoon and also that of a young college girl. Ted Newcomb is "the other half" of the honeymoon couple and also first mate aboard ship. Freddie Dean is Colonel Lampblack, a soldier of fortune, and also appears as Billy Wright, a college youth. Bob Sprowl will be the captain of the ship. Glen Rayhawk, Alice Baker, Diabi Graham, Duncan Harnold, Bill O'Leary, Christine Lambert, Kenneth Kingsley, the Paradise Harmony trio, the Southern trio and others will broadcast on the fun festival.

KREG would be pleased to receive suggestions and ideas from local fans as to how the idea of the theme frolics appeals to them. Address the letters to Oscar, Ruth and Ted, care of KREG.

Australia, with a population only slightly exceeding two persons per square mile of area, has more automobiles per capita than any other country except the United States and Canada.

Terrible Eczema Goes Quickly

Strong, Powerful Yet Safe, Moore's Emerald Oil Has Astonished Sufferers

Here's a wonderful antiseptic oil now dispensed by pharmacists at trifling cost, that will do more to relieve itching than any other remedy helping you get rid of unsightly spots and skin diseases than anything you've ever used.

Its action is little less than magical. The itching is instantly stopped; and in a short time you are rid of that bothersome, fiery eczema. The same is true of barbers' itch, salt rheum and other irritating and unsightly skin troubles.

You can obtain Moore's Emerald Oil in the original bottles for 85 cents at any modern drug store. It is safe to use—guaranteed—and failure in any of the ailments noted above is next to impossible.

Pianist To Give Radio Program

On her KREG program tomorrow Welma Souvageol, pianist, will play "Fantasia C. Major," opus 15, by Schubert; "Nocturne, F Sharp Major" and "Butterfly Etude," by Chopin. Her program will be on the air from 10 to 10:30 a. m.

DEATH VALLEY TO BE RADIO TOPIC

Death valley—one of the most menacing spots on earth, because it lacks the vital necessity of life—water.

The colorful story of Death Valley and the suffering of the Jayhawk party are to be told in music and word pictures during a 15-minute program to be presented at 7 p. m. today over KMTF. Word pictures are given by Don J. Kinsey.

The program is one of a series being presented by the Metropolitan Water district now preparing to build the great Metropolitan aqueduct to bring water from the Colorado river to the 16 cities in the district.

VIVIAN ROGERS ON CHILDREN'S HOUR

Vivian Rogers, popular story teller on the KREG children's hour programs, will make her last appearance before going East to school, on the broadcast to be presented tomorrow from 5:30 to 6 p. m., under the direction of Lorena Croddy.

Elbert Stewart, who presents "Uncle Josh" readings, will be on the air tomorrow. Le Roy Finster, yodeler, will make his first appearance over KREG tomorrow.

Marian Pliske will play the piano. Nye James Martin will sing and Opal Moore will play the piano.

SILVER ACRES

SILVER ACRES, June 16.—Mr. and Mrs. D. Adams of Ingleswood and Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Hunt and family of Garden Grove were recent dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Brooks.

Mr. and Mrs. James McCracken had as their guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Frank Goldsworthy of Pasadena.

Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Stock and family moved to their ranch on the Talbert road Thursday. Mr. Stock moved here a few months ago from Topeka, Kans., and has been occupying the M. M. Black home until they could build a home on the ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Duckworth and family of Hollywood spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Head.

Mrs. C. C. Chapman and son of La Habra were guests over the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Head.

PIANIST WILL GIVE STICKER RADIO PROGRAM

Christine Lambert and her sticker program will be on the air again tonight at 8 o'clock over KREG. For 30 minutes she will play request numbers for listeners who phone in during the evening and she defies any fan to ask for a piano number that she cannot play.

Freddie and Ruth in their weekly comedy offering will present a 15-minute program starting at 7:15 p. m. This team is increasing its popularity with the audience of the air as weeks go by.

Following a studio program of 30 minutes of popular recordings the KREG studio frolic will start promptly at 9 o'clock tonight and continue until 10:30. Something novel has been prepared in the way of entertainment for this popular feature this week.

The regular dinner hour program tonight is replete with outstanding features. The most important of these, to many, will be the health talk by Dr. K. H. Sutherland of the county health department. Dr. Sutherland will talk for 15 minutes starting at 7 o'clock.

At 8:20 p. m. the Texas Cowboys will offer a half hour of old range songs and instrumental selections that will carry many of the "old-timers" back to the time when they gathered around the "chuck-wagon" at night after a hard day and lifted their voices in song. Other features of the dinner hour program will be the regular news broadcast, radio guide and shopper's guide.

NINE GREAT CREWS VIE AT POUGHKEEPSIE

MIRACLES OF SPORTS - - - By ROBERT EDGREN

Suspend Fullerton's Manager

NEW RULE ON NIGHT LEAGUE PITCHERS DUE

For assertedly defying National Night league regulations and officials, "Slim" Collins, lanky manager of Fullerton's night baseball team, today was summarily suspended for the balance of the 1931 season by President George Peterkin.

This drastic action intensified interest in a meeting of managers called for tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. at which President Peterkin is scheduled to present an emergency plan framed as a possible remedy for weak night baseball clubs. The gathering will be held in the traffic department offices at the court house here.

Peterkin gave three reasons for suspending Collins. They were:

(1) Collins' appearance on the coaching lines in civilian clothes and refusing to leave the field when ordered to do so by the umpires.

(2) Secretly using ineligible players from the American Night league and refusing to file Fullerton contracts or releases with the president of the league.

(3) Refusing to follow league orders, in which connection it was charged that Collins openly defied Peterkin's instructions not to use certain ineligible players, sending these men into the game as soon as Peterkin left the grounds after warning Collins.

Radical departures from old rules will be in effect next summer if Peterkin's plan on pitchers is adopted. The proposal hits at the present system whereby strong teams admittedly acquire several pitchers and retain them through the entire season without giving "weak sisters" badly in need of pitching, a chance at their services.

Peterkin would register all players as pitchers and limit each club in the league to two moundmen. In substance, the president's plan follows:

"All eligible for the position of pitcher on a team must be registered with the president and no team can carry more than two registered pitchers. Pitchers may be changed via the releasing method and a released pitcher may be signed at once by another team and eligible to play immediately.

Players cannot come back to the original team for a period of two weeks from time of release. Registered pitchers may play other positions on the team as well but will be counted as a registered pitcher. In case of injury or any other reason that a pitcher cannot play the manager may ask the president for a suspension without release of the said pitcher until he is able to play again and for the right to sign another registered pitcher in his place meanwhile.

Such period to be not longer than two weeks. The president to have all authority to stop any transaction or make any ruling that he sees fit if he has reason to believe there is any transaction taking place not according to the intent and purpose of the policies of the league."

Harold English's home run in the seventh inning, with college teammate Moore preceding him around the bases, gave Willie Rash's Mystery Team a 4-2 City league night ball victory over Monroe's pharmacy at the Bowl last night.

Until English's magic wand waited out of the park, this was a sturdy pitcher's duel between Moore and young Claude Gregory in which honors were substantially even.

The Druggists picked up a run in the second inning when McCulla hit a homer and made it 2-0 in the fourth when the same hard-hitting party parked another of Moore's scorches out of town. The Mysteries tied it up in the fifth on hits by Morse and Jiles and an error, then won out in the last frame when Morse singled and English homed.

This was the first of seven City league contests for the week. Two games are booked tonight, Al's Auto Service vs. Hill and Carden at 7 o'clock and the First Baptists vs. Santa Ana 20-30 club at 8 o'clock.

CAMPOLLO, GODFREY MATCHED BY DOYLE

LOS ANGELES, June 16.—Interest in outdoor boxing further enhanced today, with the announcement that Promoter Jack Doyle would present a 10-round "battle of the Behemoths" at Wrigley field, August 17, featuring Victorio Campollo, Argentine giant, and George Godfrey, the "black shadow."

Hollywood Legion stadium's junior welter title "shoot" between Champion Tony Cansoneri and Cecil Payne is scheduled at the ball park July 13.

Ernie Payne Will Coach at Chaffey

LOS ANGELES, June 16.—Ernie Payne, captain of the championship University of Southern California track team during the past season, will join the staff of Chaffey Union Junior College next September as an instructor in the department of physical education and as coach of the track team.

In taking his new position, the Trojan hurdle star will be returning to his old school.

Hornsby On Cub Bench As Average .298

CHICAGO, June 16.—(INS)—Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Chicago Cubs, can take his own medicine.

He had proved that today by benching himself because he was in a hitting slump, just as he had previously benched Riggs Stephenson, Charley Grimm, "Hack" Wilson and "Gabby" Hartnett, all of whom were back in the game yesterday.

"I haven't been helping the team and any one who isn't helping can't stay in the line-up," Hornsby said. He had made one hit in seven full games and his batting average had dropped from .345 June 4 to .298 last Sunday.

COLTON BEATS RIVERSIDE TO TIE FLAG RACE

Riverside and Colton were tied today for leadership of the American Night Baseball league and faced the probability of a playoff for the first half of the inland circuit's split schedule.

Colton defeated Riverside, 3 to 2, at Riverside last night, this being the Rubes' first setback of the season.

Colton piled up a 3-0 lead before Riverside scored at all, getting one in the first on Haneagan's double and singles by Thoms and Stone; one in the second on Gilbert's single, Strinati's sacrifice and Haneagan's single, and one more in the sixth on Stone's double, Shaddox's infield out and Bonillas' squeeze bunt.

Riverside got its two runs in the seventh on Baker's double and Burgess' home run over the left field scoreboard.

The score:

YANK-TIGER TRADE OF PITCHERS FAILS

NEW YORK, June 16.—Wherever the New York Yankees are going this summer, they are going there all by themselves. The last hour efforts of Marse Joe McCarthy to get pitching help from the Detroit Tigers failed when Manager "Bucky" Harris wanted what McCarthy could not afford to give, and vice versa.

REDMOND PUSHOVER FOR PRIMO CARNERA

NEW YORK, June 16.—(UP)—Primo Carnera's status among heavyweight boxers remained uncertain today, despite the big Italian's one-round knockout victory over Pat Redmond of Ireland. Redmond, who lasted only 2 minutes and 24 seconds, in his scheduled 10-round bout against Carnera at Ebbets field, Brooklyn, last night, held undisputed right to ranking as the world's worst heavy—if, indeed, he deserves any ranking at all.

Redmond either was unable or unwilling to make even a pretense of being a fighter once he entered the ring and the 20,000 spectators who donated $36,000 to witness Promoter James J. Johnston's "Frolic of Freaks" left the arena with only one definite conclusion—that the show had been even poorer than cynical sports writers had predicted.

STARS INVADE WESTMINSTER AREA TONIGHT

NATIONAL NIGHT LEAGUE
W. L. Pct.
Santa Ana 15 1 .938
Whittier 11 5 .688
Olive 11 5 .688
Huntington Beach 10 6 .625
Anaheim 10 6 .625
Garden Grove 8 8 .500
Long Beach 6 10 .375
North Long Beach 4 12 .250
Westminster 2 13 .158
Fullerton 2 14 .125

Tonight's Schedule
Santa Ana at Westminster; Garden Grove at Fullerton; Whittier at Olive; Long Beach at Huntington Beach; North Long Beach at Anaheim.

Leaving their own ballwicket for the first time since the Anaheim game May 23, which produced their only defeat of the whole league season, Santa Ana's Stars travel tonight to Westminster, newest convert to night baseball.

Little importance is attached to the conflict because Santa Ana already has clinched the first half of the split National Night league schedule and Westminster can hardly hope to greatly improve its present humble status in the standings at the expense of the champions.

With the Stars definitely established as pennant winners, chief concern is riveted on a four-way fight for second place between Olive, Whittier, Anaheim and Huntington Beach. Olive and Whittier collide at Olive this evening and the winner may go through as runner-up although Friday's closing assignments for either one can hardly be classed as easy. Olive opposing Santa Ana at Anaheim and Whittier meeting Huntington Beach at Huntington Beach.

As a matter of fact, although the club is in the midst of a discouraging slump, Anaheim looks like a good bet to draw no worse than a tie for second position. The Valencias have easier competition this week than their trio of rivals, the Pacemen playing North Long Beach tonight and Long Beach Friday. Huntington Beach gets Long Beach tonight, Whittier Friday.

The Westminster set-to will be the first of three vigorous workouts for Santa Ana in the next four days and Manager George Lackaye trusts they will keep his club edged up for the second half of the league opening at Whittier a week from tonight. Santa Ana has an exhibition affair coming up at Riverside tomorrow night, in addition to the Westminster and Olive squabbles.

Lackaye will pitch Joe Ochoa and Earl Morrill against Westminster and Riverside, Joe Cornell against Olive. If Ochoa slings tonight, Morrill will work tomorrow. If Morrill hurls against the Aclators, Ochoa will draw the assignment at Riverside. "Walloping Wayne" Nelson, veteran outfielder, is still troubled by a sore shoulder and is not likely to see action so Leavitt Daley is scheduled to roam center field with "Doc" Smith at second base.

RECORD BREAKER

Records aren't safe when Miss Mary Saulsberry, below, starts shooting as her course-shattering tour of the Santa Ana Country club's estate yesterday indicates. Miss Saulsberry broke her own women's record of 82. She was one under that figure.

COLUMBIA HAS EDGE: CORNELL SHELL FEARED

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 16.—While close to 100,000 persons peer through the purpling twilight across the broad bosom of the Hudson this evening, nine mighty college crews will come sweeping down the last long mile to settle the eight-oared rowing supremacy for the year 1931.

Columbia, Cornell, Syracuse, Navi, M. I. T. and Pennsylvania from the East, Wisconsin from the Middle West and Washington and California from the Coast are due to match their skill and brawn over the testing four-mile course.

As the writer sees it, Columbia, Cornell and Syracuse, the all-New York estate armada, will be the trio that will be tossing back spray into their rivals as the spidery shells slide under the big bridge which marks the stretch run of this historic course.

Columbia Favorite
And Columbia should be first of all. Perfectly coached by the younger Glendon, perfectly trained by the veteran "Doc" Barrett, and protected by the sheltered No. 2 lane on the west shore, the light blue, white-tipped blades of the Sea Lions will have no excuses.

Beyond question the greatest sprinting crew in the east, with four straight easily-won victories behind them, it is only a question if the big city boys can go the distance.

They never have rowed four miles in actual competition. But then, few of these crews have. The date that Cornell, last year's surprise winner, has is that six of her last season's champions are back in the boat that will try to make it two straight.

Cornell Respected
Any crew that can beat Yale at two miles without bothering to raise the boat over 28 has reason to feel a world of confidence. And these Cornellians feel all of that. Indeed, the weight of their money, which, after all, speaks louder than words, is likely to make the up-state boat the betting favorite before the nine boats row up to the starting point.

Washington has a world of respect for the powerful Golden Bears from California and California has respect for Al Ulbrickson's boys. Both these eighters are tight packed with man power, but it is doubted they have the watermanship to compete with the East this season.

Wisconsin is unfortunate in having the best crew she has produced in years stacked against some superlative eighters from both seaboard. In normal years the Badger crew might have a royal chance.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—
They're picking June 29 as the date Jeems Londos will lose his heavyweight wrestling championship. . . . That's the night he is matched with Ray Steele, California collegian, in one of the New York ball parks. . . . the milk fund will share the receipts. . . . Jeems has been champion a little more than a year now. . . . and to keep interest in the game, it's high time he should lose to someone. . . . New champs always add interest and impetus to the game. . . . Steele grappled Jeems once before and lost when Londos gave him the stiff arm. . . . Mickey Cochrane is the best catcher in baseball. . . . yet he'll never be perfect as long as he keeps that saxophone.

NOT QUITE GOOD ENOUGH
Before Max Schmeling and Willie Stribling square off July 3 in Cleveland for the heavyweight championship of the world, a young man with reddish blond hair will crawl through the ropes to battle in a preliminary.

The young man's name? Johnny Risko. His story? Well, Johnny Risko is the man who was "almost heavyweight champion of the world." Tunney didn't want him. Tunney preferred Heeney. Well, why not? Wouldn't you?

In the years ago, Madison Square Garden offered to "take hold" of Risko and build him into a champion. That is, if he defeated Victorio Campollo. He did beat Campollo, decisively, but Referee Kid McPartland called that bout-at Miami—a draw. For the return bout Risko refused to train.

"Aw, I can lick that big tramp," he told his manager, little Danny Dunn. "Why should I train?" So he prepared for his second Campollo fight by a series of workouts in the night clubs of Cleveland and New York. Campollo then beat him. Oddly, Risko won the decision. But his show-bus was so sour that the Garden promoters threw up their hands. Disgusted. There went his chance.

ONE, TWO, THREE ON CHIN
There was another time. For seven rounds he beat Schmeling. Foolishly then he disobeyed his instructions, got careless and took one on the chin. This led to several more. In a minute or so he was finished. Of course, he stayed "in there." Risko never knew how to quit, but the referee stopped it. "I'll challenge 'im," said Risko the other day in Cleveland. "I'll play wit' him any day. Winner take all. Ten rounds. Twenty rounds. Jus' give 'im to me."

To which little Danny Dunn replied: "That hell you will. Yeah, you'll get in the ring with him. In a pig's eye! You gave that dumb Dutchman all he ever wants to see of you. He won't get in no ring wit' you again. You and him is all washed up."

TRY AND GET HIM AGAIN
"You wasn't hurt that night. At least you didn't act it, the way you danced in them Broadway Gardens after the fight. An' you said, 'Dunny'll fix it up.' How is Dunny going to get you another fight with him? I'll fix it up. Oh, sure!"

That's the story of Risko. Missed opportunities! Chances muffed! A great record, but in the crises, always something lacking? Always something lacking? Not heart! No, not heart!

star, has entered the singles, doubles and mixed doubles in the women's division of the Long Beach Open tournament, opening today.

ANAHEIM, June 16. — John Brown, evangelist, who is conducting a campaign in Anaheim was the featured speaker at the regular weekly meeting of the Rotary club held yesterday noon in the Elks clubhouse. He chose "The American Home" as the subject.

When this condition exists, the young man is cutting his own throat. He is literally halving his own salary. If every wife of every young man in the country were to quit work, wages would be nearly doubled due to the increase in the demand for labor.

"When the wife works and is not able to stay home, the ve-foundations upon which the home is built are practically destroyed before it has been established. The home can be complete without a woman's touch in the home and she is certainly unable to properly supply this personal touch if it is gone all day."

Brown explained the work he doing at his school in Silos Springs, Ark., telling instances of boys from the Ozark mountains that were enabled to obtain education in the school when

ACTIVITIES OF TEACHERS FOR SUMMER LISTED

With the closing of school, teachers of the Santa Ana schools start a busy season of activities in connection with preparation for their work in guiding and directing the education of the children of the community.

A survey of the summer activities of the teaching corps which has just been completed by Dr. Percy Davis, assistant superintendent of schools, reveals that summer school sessions and the National Education association meeting in Los Angeles will attract a large attendance. Many of the teachers will broaden their experience with travel with trips to the national parks of the nation and to Europe or other destinations requiring ocean travel.

More than one-third of the entire teaching staff of the city schools is enrolled at various summer sessions. Of this group 59 are planning to attend U. S. C. 17, U. C. L. A. 5, University of California; 2, Swarthmore school; and the balance, reaching a total of 128, at various educational institutions.

Practically the entire teaching personnel has advised the school administration office that they are planning to attend the sessions of the N. E. A. at Los Angeles, 298 signing that this is included in their plans for the summer.

TELEPHONE CABLE LINE COMPLETED

Heavy telephone traffic between Los Angeles and the Harbor district is now moving with high speed and reliability through the new 21 mile underground cable route, recently completed at an expenditure of more than $372,500, from the Mutual building, 433 South Olive street, to Long Beach, according to E. S. Morrow, district manager of the Southern California Telephone company.

The new facilities for inter-city communication were provided after engineers of the telephone company found that the increasing amount of long distance usage between the two points would soon tax the capacity of the two existing routes, via Compton avenue and Vermont avenue.

More than 11 miles of underground conduit, involving $126,000, were laid between Southgate and Long Beach, via Long Beach boulevard and American avenue. Extending subway running directly from the Mutual building into the northern section of the telephone route. The new line running underground in six-inch vitrified clay conduit is free from power line exposure, storm interference and other hazards, and has provided 325 additional talking circuits for Los Angeles-Long Beach telephone communication.

4-H Club Council Meets Wednesday

A special meeting of the Orange County 4-H club council has been called by Eric E. Eastman, assistant county agent, U. S. D. A., who is in charge of the club work in this county. The purpose of the meeting is to make final arrangements for the 4-H summer camp at Camp Redford and will be held in the farm advisor's office in the court house annex on Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. The regular monthly meeting of the council will not be held this month because of the extensive camping program, Eastman declared.

Moving pictures of the Laguna conference and film slides of this and other 4-H activities will be shown at the conclusion of the meeting.

Continue Case Of Alleged Burglar

The preliminary hearing of Ralph Kenny, suspected of being one of the bandits who held up the Safeway store in La Habra last month, was continued to June 22 at 1:30 o'clock when Kenny appeared before Judge A. C. Early in La Habra yesterday.

MAIL CONTRACTORS' APPLICATION FORMS

New forms of applications for contractor's licenses are being mailed out and will be available at the Orange County Builders' exchange office, it was announced today by Frederic Sanford, secretary of the exchange.

Under the state law recently amended it is mandatory that the registrar require applicants to comply with certain provisions, the first of which is that the applicant must file a new and complete application on an official form approved by the registrar. The second is that the application form should contain, in addition to the name and address of the person or firm applying, such further information as the registrar shall require in determining the applicant's fitness to be licensed as a contractor. The third provision is that the application must be accompanied by a fee of $10 in the form of a money order, certified or cashier's check. The last provision is that the application must be received in Sacramento prior to July 30, 1931, or there will be an additional penalty of $10, making the fee $20.

Orchestra Will Play As Radio Stars Entertain

The five-piece orchestra of the Moose lodge will furnish music while the seats are filling at the high school auditorium next Friday night for the benefit show to be presented by Bill Sharples and his company of radio entertainers under the auspices of the Home Builders' class of the First Christian church Bible school. The Moose orchestra is well known to Santa Ana radio fans, as it plays regularly two nights a week over KREG as well as for numerous other entertainments.

According to Mrs. Dale Elliott, member of the committee of the Home Builders' Sunday school class which is sponsoring the entertainment, "this will be one of the liveliest, peppiest, and at the same time cleanest shows ever put on in Santa Ana. All of those who listen regularly to Bill Sharples' morning broadcasts over KNX have come to love him for his sincerity, his good humor and his kindness. He has a host of followers throughout Southern California who would as soon think of missing their own breakfast as they would of missing Bill Sharples' breakfast party over the air."

Members of the committee announce that reserved seats are now available at the Santa Ana Book store, 208 West Fourth street.

ANN PENNINGTON

Famous stage and screen star, still radiantly youthful, tells how to stay alluring

"I NEVER MIND telling my age," says dainty little Ann Pennington. "As long as a woman doesn't look old, I don't see why birthdays should worry her."

"And nowadays there isn't much excuse for looking one's age. Any one who really wants to can keep youthful charm right through the years."

"We on the stage, of course, guard youth as our most priceless treasure. Without it, we can't hope to hold the admiration we have won."

"So no matter how busy we may be, we give our complexion the most diligent care. A skin with that soft glowing sort of look is always appealing. For years I have used Lux Toilet Soap regularly. It does leave my skin so youthfully smooth and fresh!"

Countless other lovely stars agree with this famous dancer about Lux Toilet Soap!

In Hollywood, 605 of the 613 leading actresses use it. And this fragrant white soap is official in all the great film studios.

WHO WOULD DREAM to look at these recent photographs that she is 39 years old—appeared first in the Follies way back in 1913! This fascinating little dancer, whose irresistible charm has won hearts by the thousand on the stage and on the screen, says: "I advise the woman who would keep youth to give her complexion careful regular attention. I have never found anything else as good as Lux Toilet Soap for keeping one's skin always youthfully fresh."

Large Audience Witnesses Flag Day Ceremonies

MAIN ADDRESS IS PRESENTED BY DR. WARMER

Stirring martial music caused large crowds to congregate on sidewalks downtown last night to view the flag day parade and attracted a still greater crowd to Birch park, where impressive ceremonies were observed.

The parade started at the Elks clubhouse with the Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars drum corps furnishing the music. Delegations from the American Legion, Calumet Camp U. S. W. V., Daughters of the Union Veterans, Ladies of the G. A. R., Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled Veterans, the entire membership of Company "L" and a number of Elks club members participated in the parade which ended at the bandstand in the park. The various organizations lined up in front of the stand while presentation of flags and banners was observed.

The Santa Ana Municipal band, under the direction of D. C. Clanton, presented a patriotic concert from 7:30 until 8 p. m. beginning the exercises with the "Star Spangled Banner."

"Heads Up" was played by the Legion drum corps, following which the Rev. Harry Owens, pastor of the First Baptist church, gave the invocation.

Franklin G. West, grand exalted ruler of the Elks lodge, opened the program proper with a brief speech welcoming the crowd of more than 2000 to the fourth annual flag day exercises and pointing out that the Elks lodge originated flag day.

Hunter Leach, commander of the local Legion post, introduced Hugh Runnels, who sang two numbers during the course of the program. He was accompanied on the piano by Ruth Armstrong.

The Rev. George A. Warner, pastor of the First Methodist church, delivered the main patriotic address of the evening with a speech in which he pointed out the fact that all Americans are used to using symbols to convey the meanings of their ideals and customs and that the United States flag is one of the most symbolic emblems the nation possesses.

"We people of the United States are used to symbolism," he declared. "We use symbols when we present the keys to the city to a distinguished visitor as a token that the city is open to him; when a man slips a ring on the finger of the woman he takes for his wife he uses the ring as a symbol of his love and faith; when we go to sacred shrines to worship we try to put the content of our devotion to Jesus into symbols, and when we come together in moments like this to pay just tribute to the flag we try to put the content of our consciousness into the flag, that is the symbol of our ideals and hopes.

"There are a few words that we use I would like to call to your attention, that are very symbolic. The first of these is the word 'right,' which symbolizes life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Life that is sacred; liberty, not license, if you please. There is great peril in the use of liberty. Its use gives us opportunity to manifest ourselves as we really are. There is nothing more dangerous than liberty than the lack of liberty. The pursuit of pleasure gives us the best that life offers, more comforts and happiness.

"Responsibility is the next word that I would like to call to your attention. It gives us a sense of responsibility without end and we must justify this responsibility.

"It has been said that Americans think only far enough to criticize and not to construct. Democracy mixes right with duties. Whatever cross section of America we might examine we would find that the feeling of responsibility and duty is properly present. We can put our shoulders to the common wheel and achieve real progress.

"I recall a statement I have read somewhere that declared that one of the main dangers in America is the attempt to dam up evolution. Whoever makes evolution impossible makes revolution inevitable. Democracy opens the doors to new ideals and hopes.

"The third word I would call to your attention is the word 'service.' This is a glorified word. You veterans and members of patriotic organizations have put real content into this word. Some of you were willing to pay the supreme price so that the ideals of America might stand. There is as much opportunity for service in times of peace as in times of war. We can all strive to build a nation that will be loved as well as feared. This is our duty and our privilege and gives us unlimited opportunities if we would achieve benefits that can be handed down to posterity."

R. Z. McKinney offered an unique method of presenting his "Tribute to the Flag." He explained the evolution of the United States flag and as each flag the nation has known was discussed, a boy scout appeared on the stage, carrying and presenting a replica of the original flags while the band played appropriate music.

He began the tribute by explaining that the first flag used in America was not original. He explained the various phases the flag passed through until the first continental flag was made by Betsy Ross under the direction of George Washington and his committee. The first flag that really was original contained 13 stripes and a constellation of 13 stars. The congress in 1777 provided for the design of the flag. In 1795 two stars and two stripes were added to represent the two new states, Vermont and Kentucky. This idea of adding more stripes for new states was thought to be impractical so in 1818 congress ordered that a new star should be added for each new state but that the stripes should number 13. The flag with 15 stripes and 15 stars was the one that inspired the writing of the "Star Spangled Banner." The flag was a symbol of freedom and was both a declaration and a prophecy, McKinney declared in concluding the tribute.

The exercises were given under the joint auspices of the Elks club and the American Legion, with Robert Walker acting as general program chairman. The benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Harry Owens after two buglers from the Legion drum corps had played taps.

TO PRESENT BIRCH PARK PROGRAMS

Santa Ana Municipal band of 50 musicians which has gained an enviable reputation throughout Southern California and other states, will delight music lovers again every Thursday evening in Birch Park during the summer months starting June 18 to September 3 under the direction of D. C. Clanton. Prominent vocalists and instrumentalists will be featured at each program. There will be the customary German night, Russian night, Spanish night, Italian night and an American night featuring music of these nations. A Negro night also will be featured.

CRASH IS BASIS OF DAMAGE SUIT

Damages of $27,180 are asked under two counts in a complaint which has been filed in superior court by Elden K. Dubendorf and his father, S. A. Dubendorf, against W. H. Thompson, an osteopathic physician and surgeon at Riverside.

The action is based on a collision at Laguna Beach on February 7, when a car driven by Ben Thompson, a 15-year-old son of the defendant, and the motorcycle on which young Dubendorf was riding, crashed. The plaintiffs ask $20,000 for personal injuries suffered by Dubendorf including a fracture of his left leg and nose and other injuries. Loss of wages, medical expenses and damages to his clothes and motorcycle are also itemized for a total of $23,590.

The senior Dubendorf asks $3590 for expenses incurred as a result of the accident to his son and damages he has sustained as a result thereof.

Approval Given To Post Office Material Today

R. J. Chute, contractor who is building the new post office at the corner of Sixth and Bush streets, has received an official approval from Washington to the effect that the last item on the list of material and measurements has been made, it was announced today by Terry E. Stephenson, postmaster. The last item was the approval of the steel window frames for the building.

The force of men employed in the construction of the building will be increased and the erection of the brick walls in front and on the sides of the building will be started immediately. The building is expected to be completed by December 1.

PERISCOPING PROSPERITY FOR SANTA ANA BUSINESS

Lowered production cost of merchandise is held to be one of the factors in the return to prosperity according to Hugh J. Lowe, prominent Santa Ana clothier. Lowe said yesterday:

"It looks to me as though business has started on the upgrade. In this particular line the indications are very plain. Merchandise is being sold at the lowest level it has touched in years. The manufacturers have cut down the factory cost and this, with the low price of raw material, makes it possible for the retailer to offer quality merchandise at extremely low prices. There is practically no price resistance to be met in the clothing line at present because it is possible for the dealer to offer a suit of manifestly good material, fit and style at a price that was considered impossible a few years ago.

"The price of merchandise has reached its present low level because the manufacturers have cleaned house and reduced the cost of operation. I am glad to say that they have not reduced the number of employees nor have they cut wages. The reduction in costs has come about through removal of deadwood that had naturally crept in during the recent period of abnormal prosperity and through introduction of closer methods of efficiency.

"We are buying fall merchandise right now without fear as both spring and fall merchandise has struck a level price basis and when that is reached business can do nothing other than improve.

"In the month of May, this year, we sold more suits than we did in May 1931. Of course the actual dollars and cents total was not so high because of the lower price levels but the margin of profit was the same and when it is possible to sell quality merchandise at a reduced price and still maintain the percentage of profit that is pretty conclusive proof that business is not going to the dogs and that the upward trend has started.

"Collections have never slowed up and that, in itself, is a good indication that business is not in a serious condition.

"For that matter conditions here never have been as serious as reports from other sections of the nation would lead us to believe. Of course there has been a general depression but to the Santa Ana and Orange county business man who has been in business over a period of years that was no cause for worry. They have passed through similar depressions and al-

But Mayor Strough disagreed: "The law states that a person must sleep within the village limits to be a resident. Unless Buhrig can sleep standing up in the four feet of his house in the village, he isn't a resident."

BAND CONCERT SEASON IS TO OPEN THURSDAY

By RUTH ANDREWS

Local lovers of band music are looking forward with a great deal of anticipation to the opening program of Santa Ana Municipal band's summer concert series, which will be presented by the popular musical organization under D. C. Clanton's direction next Thursday night in Birch park, as in former seasons. The program will open at 7:30 p. m.

According to Harry Hansen, president and manager of the band, the opening program will feature two special solos, in addition to the regular band program. Maurice Phillips, local baritone, will sing Tosti's ballad, "Goodbye," and Director Clanton will be heard in one of his enjoyable trombone solos, and plans to present "My Hope" by Liberti, at this opening concert.

Thursday night's program will feature a well varied program, composed of classic and modern selections, ranging from Beethoven through Offenbach and Strauss to the modern American composer, Victor Herbert.

The interesting overture "Orpheus" from the comic operas of Offenbach will be offered, among other selections. Offenbach is noted as a famous composer of French comic opera. Of Jewish parentage, he was born in Cologne in 1819, his death occurring in Paris in 1880. At 15, he played cello at the Opera Comique in Paris, also at popular concerts, besides beginning to compose pieces for cello and songs at an early age.

At 30 Offenbach was appointed conductor at the Theater Francaise in Paris and several years later made a great success as the owner of the Bouffes-Parisiens, a theater featuring comic opera. From 1872-76 he managed the Gaiety theater, and toured America in 1876-77.

Offenbach often wrote with more haste than consciousness, lured rather by the popularity of the moment, than by the desire for enduring fame. His work is replete with cleverness, however, as well as sparkling humor, and often touched by a keenly satirical note. Altogether, Offenbach composed over 100 stage works, one of the most popular being the familiar "Tales of Hoffman," written in 1881, and very successful both on the continent and in America.

was alleged in the complaints that the plaintiffs had been engaged to work on oil leases of the defendant at Huntington Beach.

FLOOD FACTS OUTLINED FOR FARM CENTER

A vivid pictorial history of what has happened in Orange county in times of flood was presented to members of the Yorba Linda Farm center Monday evening at their regular meeting in the Women's clubhouse, in conjunction with a talk on the proposed flood control plan by Engineer M. N. Thompson.

These old pictures, taken during the floods of 1916 and 1927, showed the Santa Ana river spreading through Anaheim and Garden Grove, boats on the state highway and houses washed into the San Joaquin creek near Santa Ana. They were collected through the efforts of the farm bureau and presented by Secretary R. D. Flaherty. Pictures of the various dam sites where followed by charts of the proposed dams, which were explained by Engineer Thompson. Requirements of the flood control plan provide for taking care of a flood two and one-half times greater than that of 1916, with dams proposed at Prado, Brea, Fullerton, Carbon canyon, San Juan Capistrano and on the San Joaquin creek. Total cost, including the changing of highways and the purchase of lands, would be $10,600,000.

George Kellogg reported on the farm bureau meeting, giving an account of the farm bureau report in which he stated that cattle raising had brought $28,000,000 net returns to California in the past year, that it costs 27 cents a dozen to produce eggs, and that it costs $417 to bring an acre of avocados into production.

President Austin Marshburn reported on the Yorba Linda Farm Center exhibit at the fair, which took first place, and thanked Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Salovey and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Elchler for putting it on.

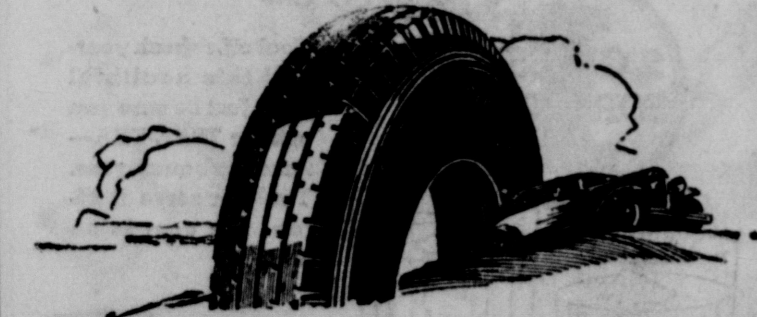

J. E. Lewis also announced that that Orange County Engineers' association will meet at the Masonic hall in Yorba Linda Friday evening, the Women's club serving dinner at 6:30 o'clock Dr. R. T. Gordon of the Scripps Institute of Technology, will talk on "Rain fall."

For a final "get together" before summer vacation separates the group, Miss Evelyn Yount entertained a number of University of California at Los Angeles graduates at a farewell bridge party in her home at 2025 North Broadway Saturday afternoon.

A clever dog theme was carried out in the tallies and prizes, which were a large bronze dog received by Miss Melinda Carstensen for high score and a box of stationery with a dog motif presented to Miss Lois Wardell for second high.

Joining in the farewell were the Misses Frances Michelson of Ventura; Lois Wardell, Arizona; Mary Goodykantz, Los Angeles; Melinda Carstensen, Pasadena; Marguerite Lucas, Fullerton; Adelaide Parkell, West Los Angeles; Mildred Becker, Los Angeles; Katherine Foster, San Diego; Virginia McFall, Long Beach; Christine Peters, Alhambra, and the hostess, Miss Yount.

Young Couple Wedded At Home Ceremony

At a quiet wedding of Wednesday evening, June 10, Miss Irene Fetzner and Norman Winterstein were married in the home of Andrew Hansler, 1093 Spurgeon street, with the Rev. A. C. Bode, pastor of St. John's Lutheran church in Orange, officiating.

The couple was attended by Miss Edna Rehme and Carl Winterstein, both of Los Angeles and cousins of the bridegroom.

Following their honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Winterstein will establish their home in this city.

Double Wedding Rites Find Lovely Setting In Mission Inn

The wedding day of Miss Ruth Finley, daughter of Steele Finley of this city, was also the wedding day of Miss Hazel Rogers of Riverside, for the two close friends spoke their vows at a double ceremony Saturday afternoon, Miss Finley becoming the bride of Clifford Maxson of this city and Miss Rogers the bride of Robert Webster of Riverside.

The upstairs patio of the Mission Inn at Riverside was the setting for the impressive rites, conducted by Dr. Egley, pastor of the Riverside First Presbyterian church. Musical numbers for the affair were played on the harp by a charming senorita appropriately dressed in a Spanish costume.

Miss Finley and Miss Rogers were groomed in identical fashion, both wearing long frocks fashioned of white flat crepe, with jacket effects. Their bouquets were of white roses, lilies of the valley and gardenias and they wore hats of horsehair braid.

Miss Finley was attended by Miss Boyd Joplin as maid of honor. She was becomingly groomed in pink, carried a bouquet of roses in matching tint and wore a pink horsehair braid hat of the same color as the blue one worn by Miss Rogers' maid of honor, Miss Marian Hall. Miss Hall's frock was of soft blue and she carried pink sweet peas and blue delphinium.

Mr. Maxson's best man, Harold Lindsey, and Mr. Webster's attendant, Jack Devine, acted as ushers.

About 100 guests, including 35 from this city, were present at the ceremony and the reception which followed. Ice cream moulds of slippers and angels were served with the large wedding cake, cut by the two brides.

The two young couples then left for a honeymoon trip at Lake Arrowhead and San Francisco, planning to be gone for about three weeks. They will choose between Long Beach and Whittier as the setting for their home, as Mr. Maxson is employed with the Richfield Oil company in Whittier and Mr. Webster's work takes him to Los Angeles daily.

Both Mrs. Webster and Mrs. Maxson will continue their social welfare work in Los Angeles. Their weddings climaxed several years of close association as they attended the University of Southern California together; later toured Europe together, and more recently have been engaged in social welfare work in the same location.

Eightieth Birthday Celebrated Here With Dinner

As Mrs. Mary Stanton of Azusa is a frequent visitor in this city, it seemed appropriate that she should celebrate her 80th birthday here as she did Sunday evening when her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Eyerley were hosts in their home, 561 South Van Ness avenue.

The honored guest's sons-in-law and daughters from various southern cities were present to share in the memorable occasion. She was showered with gifts, letters and telegrams from relatives in eastern states and in California, among which were congratulations from her two sons who were unable to be present, F. G. Stanton, Monmouth, Ill., and Russell Stanton of Alhambra, who is touring the east. Mrs. Stanton received greetings from her brother, the Rev. William Carter, D. D., of Brooklyn, New York; Joseph Carter, Detroit, Mich.; John Carter, St. Helen, Mich., and two sisters, Miss Marie Carter San Francisco and Mrs. Emma Staple Gillespie, Ill.

Dinner was served at two tables decorated with many colorful flowers from the home gardens. Rose nut-cups were cleverly designed as were the place cards, hand-painted by the hostess. With the dessert course came a large birthday cake, decorated and topped with eight gleaming candles, one for each decade.

Of special significance to the honoree as well as the guests was the reading of a poem, "Incomplete Yet Trusting," given by Little Tam Stevens, for this same poem was read at the 80th birthday celebration of Mrs. Stanton's mother, Mrs. Thomasina Carter, who had composed the lines.

Sons-in-law and daughters of the honoree who were present included Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Conron, Alhambra; Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Stevens and children, Tam and Ned, Monrovia; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Forum Members Plan Party in Honor of Mrs. Head

In planning a costume party for last evening in the Y. W. C. A. rooms, members of the Woman's Forum availed themselves of the opportunity to honor one of their group, Mrs. M. E. Head, who is soon to celebrate her 80th birthday anniversary.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. E. S. Hurwitz and Mrs. Carl Sutton. Entertainment was provided by the five different groups into which the Forum was divided for the evening. A bean blowing contest, an old-fashioned spelling bee, a miniature forum, and the ever-popular charades, formed the entertaining contest program.

An enjoyable feature was the parade, in which all members dressed in costume took part. Mrs. Major Anderson's garb created much amusement, and she was awarded the prize.

Late in the evening refreshments were served in the dining room, where tables had been attractively arranged by Mrs. Ray H. Snyder and Mrs. Harry Gardner. Spring flowers in colorful variety were combined with ferns for the floral motif, and candles in pastel tones added much to the pretty scene. Home-made ice cream and strawberry tarts were served.

It was at this time that Mrs. Head learned that she was the special guest, following a little talk by Mrs. Major Anderson, president of the Forum, a large birthday cake topped with 80 pink candles, was placed before her. She received also a book of Edgar A. Guest's poems from the assembled members.

Members of the Forum have just one more meeting before they disband for the summer, and this will come Tuesday noon in the Y. M. C. A.

Those present were Meedames C. C. Vogie, Carl Sutton, F. E. Harrison, Orville Northrup, Harry Gardner, E. S. Hurwitz, Marie Fowler, M. E. Head, R. Russell, A. S. Granas, J. E. Snow, M. M. Holmes, Mrs. Anderson, Laura McNough, Niquette, S. H. Finley, Anson Mott, Ray H. Snyder and the Misses Hester Covington, M. Barbara Johnson and Percie Head.

White Shriners Follow Practice Meeting With Surprise

When Mrs. Neal Beisel in her capacity as worthy high priestess of Damascus White Shrine, called a practice meeting of her officers for Sunday afternoon she little suspected that she was lending herself to friendly plans of the group to celebrate the twenty-sixth wedding anniversary which she and Mr. Beisel were quietly observing that day.

When practice was concluded Mrs. Beisel accompanied her sister, Mrs. H. F. Roberts, to the latter's home upon a reasonable pretext, and stop was made at the pretty home on Orange avenue, of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. McConnell. In the meantime the conspirators had assembled in the pretty patio of the home where everything was in readiness for a delicious chicken supper. Tables were especially inviting spread beneath the drooping pepper bushes, and with quantities of flowers to add their cheerful beauty to the scene. With the dessert course was served a three-tiered wedding cake baked by Mrs. A. E. Wallace, and decorated in bridal fashion with a small bride and groom on the very topmost pinnacle of the confection.

It developed during the celebration that Mr. and Mrs. Beisel were not the only celebrants for the date was the anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. James Armstrong's wedding as well, consequently the two "brides" shared the honor of cutting the cake and receiving many pretty flowers. To Mr. and Mrs. Beisel was presented a dozen sterling silver teaspoons, the gift of the Shrine officers.

Sharing the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. McConnell, hosts; Mr. and Mrs. Beisel, complimented guests; Messrs. and Meedames Armstrong; W. W. Hyde, Jack Willey, James Tarpley, James Vinson, P. N. Youthful Host Plans Flag Day Party

The 154th birthday of Old Glory was observed in delightful fashion Saturday morning by Master Frank Tallman, when he entertained a group of his classmates from the Lincoln school, in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Tallman, 117 East Eleventh street.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Tallman and Miss Polly Todd, the children's school teacher, a lively session of games on the lawn was enjoyed. A picture of the children was taken during the forenoon.

At 11:30 Mrs. Tallman invited the boys to the dining room, where they saluted the flag, and then sat down to the dining table which was attractive with all appointments carrying out the red, white and blue motif. A variety of sandwiches, fruit, jello, ice cream and candy were served.

Those sharing the occasion with Master Frank were Richard Mooner, Robert Brown, Billy McBurney, Herbert McCarthy, Keith Nichols and Jimmie Mooner.

CHURCH WOMEN SOCIETY THE HOME WEDDINGS FRATERNAL FASHIONS HOUSEHOLD

Antipasto and Appetizers

I am of the opinion that the woman who really likes to shut herself into a hot kitchen and cook a heavy hot dinner should have a mental fitness. Fortunately, such women are few and far between in this day! The clever housekeeper keeps a variety of appetizers on hand, so that a plate of hors d'oeuvres can be served at a minute's notice. Served at the table as a first course, they turn the hot-day scrappy dinner into a dainty, appetizing meal.

Decide what you and your family like, select three of the best and keep them in cupboard or refrigerator to be used immediately. You can buy tiny biscuit with rolled edges, ideal for the soft fish or cheese spreads; a few cans of tiny smoked sardines; a can of antipasto—but let me digress for a moment.

A sum'shus spread can be made out of antipasto if the contents of the can are well mashed, lightly heated, spread on the rolled-edge biscuit, seasoned with a dash of paprika, and lemon juice.

Then there is a wealth of cheeses; do try soft roquefort spread on smoked chipped beef, rolled up, and fastened with a toothpick for convenience in eating. And don't forget some sort of smoked fish to shave into fine slices for topping crackers. And last but not least, tiny pickles, home-canned dills, and all sorts of olives, stuffed and plain.

Have you eaten the large green olives, stuffed with anchovies? They are something to live for!

Grated cheese
Paprika, salt, cayenne.

Scald the tomatoes, peel and cut each one in half. Place the halves in a buttered pan, cut side up, and sprinkle with salt and pepper.

The crumbs are best when toasted to make them crisp and brown. Mix them lightly and quickly with the mayonnaise and spread over the tomatoes. Drop a little grated cheese over each crumb topped tomato, season with cayenne and salt and cook for ten minutes in a hot oven, then slip under the broiler flame for a minute to brown.

Allowing one tomato to each person, the calories amount to 260 per person. The larger portion of this total is found in the mayonnaise and crumbs, two energy making foods. The tomatoes appeal to the palate but they have hidden charms—they help to digest the mayonnaise and crumbs and whatever meat is served with them.

For a quick, cool dessert mash some berries, sweeten and let freeze all day in your mechanical refrigerator. Serve with a spoonful of unsweetened whipped cream.

THE "FALCON" WATCHES

Bebe Daniels and Ricardo Cortez in a scene from "The Maltese Falcon," now showing at the Fox Broadway theater.

WINNIE LIGHTNER IN BIG LAUGH PICTURE

"Gold Dust Gertie," the Warner Bros. picture which stars Winnie Lightner with Olsen and Johnson in support is now playing at the Fox West Coast theater, is one of the most riotous of comedies, teeming as it does, the screen's outstanding comedienne and the most famous pair of stage clowns in America.

Winnie turns vamp in her own behalf in "Gold Dust Gertie," a role in a way like her uproarious one in "Gold Diggers of Broadway." The story involves a bathing beauty contest and a hilarious ocean voyage on a private yacht, with three of Winnie's ex-husbands and a prospective one, contributing to the complications.

The cast includes Claude Gillingwater, Charles Judels, Charley Grapewin, Virginia Sale, Dorothy Christy, Vivian Oakland and Arthur Hoyt.

Lloyd Bacon who guided Winnie Lightner through "Sit Tight" and who directed Olsen and Johnson in "Fifty Million Frenchmen," is responsible for this particular feature comedy.

CLOWNS

Olsen and Johnson, two of the funniest men who ever went to the screen play the comedy roles with Winnie Lightner in "Gold Dust Gertie," now showing at the Fox West Coast theater.

"MALTESE FALCON" BIG MYSTERY SHOW

"The Maltese Falcon," the Warner Bros. mystery romance, now at the Fox Broadway theater, stars Bebe Daniels as a strangely alluring adventuress whose pretense of love dupes all the men who come under her power—except the one man she wants, who has observed the duplicity of her protestations to others, and, though still obsessed by her fascination—is compelled to see her as she really is.

The part of the bewildering Miss Wonderly is played with consummate art by Miss Daniels, who makes the character as baffling to audiences as to the actors in the weird murder mystery mix-up, which is an adaptation of the best selling novel by Dashiell Hammett, who was for years a Pinkerton detective.

Others in the cast are Ricardo Cortez, as Miss Wonderly's beloved foe; Robert Elliott, Una Merkel, Otto Matiesen, Dudley Digges, Walter Long, Dwight Frye, Thelma Todd and J. Farrell MacDonald. Roy Del Ruth directed.

ANN HARDING FILM ENDS ENGAGEMENT

"Girl of the Golden West," which closes tonight at Walker's State theater as a First National and Vitaphone production, is considered David Belasco's outstanding theatrical success, and it placed him definitely in the forefront of American play producers.

The play opened in 1905, and was given its first tryout performance in the Belasco theater in Pittsburgh. It was so popular that it was immediately taken into New York city, where it ran to capacity audiences during that and the following season.

It then went on "the road," where it repeated its New York success. It is still considered one of the most popular plays of repertory companies. Practically every stock company of note has played it at one time or another.

"An" is the name of a town in Sweden.

SEAL BEACH

SEAL BEACH, June 16.—Jo-hana Bran was bound over to the superior court in Santa Ana when she appeared for a preliminary hearing on a forgery charge. She was charged with altering and forging checks which she attempted to pass on local merchants.

Justice of the Peace Smith presided at the hearing.

Mrs. Clara Alexander of Bakersfield entertained with a party observing the 15th birthday of her cousin, Miss Katherine Simpson.

The party was held at the Simpson home on Sixth street and eight friends of the honoree were present. Delicious refreshments of ice cream and cake were served at a prettily appointed table. Games were played during the afternoon. Attending the charming affair were Marcel Glenn, May Rainey, Audrey Armstrong, Frances Beeler, Bonny Betkey, Georgia Adams, the honoree, Katherine Simpson, and her sister, Wilma Simpson.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Edwards of 2428 Seventh street, are the parents of a baby boy, born June 8 at Long Beach Community hospital.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAI COCHRAN — PICTURES BY KNICK
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

The woman held the crabs up high so all could see. "Oh, me, or, my!" cried Scouty. "Where did she get those? And are they good to eat? If so, I'd like to sit right down and have some served me good and brown. If they're like crabs or lobsters, I am sure they are a treat."

The Travel Man said, "Listen, lad! I must admit I'm always glad to have a meal of giant crabs and we'll have some today. They're just as tender as can be and quite a favorite dish, to me. But look those large things over well, before we go away."

And so the Tinies went up near. The Travel Man said, "Have no fear. The crabs are dead and will not hurt you, though they once were strong." Then Coppy, simply filled with awe, said, "Goodness sakes, look at that claw! I'll bet that it could pinch. It's on a leg that's two feet long."

A seafood cafe stood nearby and there the whole bunch went to try a dish of giant crabs. It was a very wondrous meal. Each Tiny ate all that he could and all agreed that crabs were good. Said Scouty, "I have had so much, real stuffy now feel."

To Lake Shoji the bunch next went and there about an hour was spent in riding in a narrow boat. Cold Carry. "This is fun. The water's still as it can be." And then he cried, "What's that I see? It looks just like a mountain, and it glitters 'neath the sun."

The Travel Man replied, "You're right. That is a mountain. What a sight! It's old Mount Fujiyama. Seeing it is quite a treat. Though you have read of it before, you did not know what was in store. It rises up into the air near 13,000 feet."

They went to court with a studious financier from Ohio . . . and took a beating. . . Eugene Grace (left) and Charles M. Schwab, president and chairman of the board of Bethlehem Steel, who lost to Cyrus S. Eaton in litigation over their projected merger with Youngstown Sheet and Tube.

Multi-millionaire Cyrus Stephen Eaton is now down, faced with seven law suits, and he has lost control of his gigantic industrial empire of power and steel, but his rise and his victory over Bethlehem Steel are unique in big business history

A NEW financial hero was being acclaimed at the opening of this year—Cyrus Stephen Eaton, Nova Scotia-born Cleveland, "the man who whipped Wall Street."

Four months later Eaton had stepped down from the command of the great financial mechanism he had built up. Home-town bankers took over the direction of his vast holdings in public utility, steel, rubber, mining and banking enterprises.

Wall Street was astounded and mystified. Two years ago the country had scarcely heard of Eaton, so quietly had he put together a personal fortune in the vicinity of $100,000,000. Then suddenly he launched a new independent union of steel companies, his $300,000,000 Republic, and shortly afterward threw down the gage of conflict with Bethlehem Steel and its Wall Street bankers.

Eaton's fight was brought on by the Bethlehem effort to execute a quick acquisition of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. Eaton happened to be the largest stockholder in that company, although he also controlled its big competitor farther down the same Youngstown street. He had hoped to build the Sheet & Tube Company into a Republic twin, both to be under Eaton influence, together to stabilize western steel alongside the U. S. Steel Corporation.

The long lawsuit turned out to be the legal battle of the generation, and Eaton emerged the winner, on points, at the beginning of this year. He had stopped that merger, he had "licked Wall Street."

And then, more sudden than anything in Eaton's magnificent career up to that moment, came the announcement he had retired from Continental Shares. He was, for the time being, through. He retained his directorates in several smaller investment companies and even on the board of Youngstown Sheet & Tube, but the signs were unmistakable that something obscure had defeated Eaton.

HAD Wall Street, on second wind, taken Eaton after all? In the first place Eaton never really fought Wall Street, and in the second place Wall Street was too busy with its own troubles at the time Eaton was displaced to give him more than passing thought.

Eaton is only 47 and is still equipped with quite a few of the separate millions he has been accumulating these 20 years. He is also beset with lawsuits. Let him dispose of the litigation, give him quieter weather on the stock market and Eaton will probably again be on the front pages. For the time being he is resting in his summer place outside Cleveland. He is still powerful in Republic Steel and remains a director in 12 other companies.

The things that defeated Eaton were the things that were happening to Wall Street at the time he was carrying on his struggle with Charles M. Schwab, Eugene Grace and others in the sultry court room at Youngstown. Eaton was winning victories at law while the ground was slipping out from under him on the stock exchange.

By October, 1930, while the Youngstown case was still going on, it was necessary for Eaton to sell a wad of personally owned securities to his Continental Shares for $56,000,000 or thereabouts. Continental executed the purchase by borrowing about $35,000,000 in New York, for which it put up the purchased securities as collateral.

With the money he received from Continental, Eaton settled with his financial partnership, Otis & Co., and in other places for what he still owed on these and other stocks in their long accumulation in his portfolio.

The stockholders heard about it. Among them were lawyers who had watched with professional admiration the tactics of the Eaton lawyers in the Youngstown case. They saw the stocks Continental had purchased from Eaton going down in value, down under what Eaton had sold them for, and they brought suit—brought several suits, in fact. Presently Eaton was called upon to defend seven suits at law, brought by three or four different groups, all of them attacking one or another phase of his financial relationships with Continental.

MEANWHILE the bankers who had lent quite a few millions to Continental were beginning to be nervous. Their collateral, originally worth one and a half times the amount of the loan, was going down, like almost everything else in Wall Street.

It became a question whether the bankers or the lawyers would get into Continental first.

By working on Sunday, the bankers got in. Lawyers were toiling on still another suit, one of heavier calibre than anything they had yet hurled, but it was not to have been ready until the following Tuesday.

At dawn of Monday, Continental was under the direction of the presidents of the four largest Cleveland banks, and of a new executive, one George T. Bishop, who happened to have been the man who gave Eaton his start away back in 1907. Bishop is Eaton's neighbor out in the country. Everything was on the politest of terms, but all the same Eaton was no longer boss.

Bishop and the four Cleveland bank presidents represented a large Wall Street bank, although they were personally somewhat concerned in the fact that their own banks had lent money on Continental stock. One of them had been lending at one time about six times what Continental stock had come to be worth when this particular banker went on its board.

Whilst all this was happening to Continental, the value of Youngstown Sheet & Tube stock was declining on the New York Stock Exchange to a point where it showed the sponsors of a merger with Bethlehem a loss of around $80,000,000. This was a "paper" loss, it is true, but anybody who sees his stock daily shrinking in value has a hard time concentrating his mind on its purely paper aspects. The loss tends to look very real.

EATON was the man who had forced them to hold on to their stock all through his court case, and now if they were going to merge the company with Bethlehem, they would have to start all over. The complementary "paper" loss of the Eaton side in their Youngstown holdings was around $30,000,000. Eaton's victory in that case had been of the nature first made famous by King Pyrrhus of Epirus.

One of the huge blocks of stock which Eaton had sold to Continental last October, for cash, was his shares in the

He whipped Wall Street . . . and then the bankers and the lawyers got into his own companies . . . Cyrus S. Eaton . . . the genius from Nova Scotia.

United Light & Power Co., one of the grander of the public utilities corporations. United contained within it practically all the properties by which Eaton had climbed step by step from obscurity.

Eaton's stems go back, in fact, to the first few months of Eaton's sojourn in Cleveland. Newly graduated from McMaster University in Toronto (Eaton was reared in Pugwash, Nova Scotia) he had come to Cleveland just before the panic of 1907. After some earnest thoughts and a short experiment in the Baptist ministry, he decided upon business instead. He married a Cleveland girl and settled down in an office with the same George T. Bishop who was lately to take the direction of much of the vast accumulation of his hands.

Bishop was one of the Ohio financiers who were throwing interurban railways boldly through the countryside of half a dozen states. Most of the roads constructed by the Ohio crowd have passed into oblivion, but some of the enterprises live on in the light and power interconnections which came to be more profitable than the passenger traffic. The young Eaton never cared much for the railway business but he was fascinated by the possibilities of electrical interconnection.

Eaton's first achievement was to gather up some franchises in southwestern Iowa and eastern Nebraska. He brought these back to Bishop, and the two men, in association with Otis & Co. of Cleveland, financed a little company and sold its bonds.

This brought Eaton into his first contact with Otis & Co., the brokerage and investment house of which he became a partner in 1915. On the day that Eaton retired from Continental Shares last spring, the brokerage end of Otis was turned over to a larger New York brokerage house. It retained its investment business.

EATON'S fondness for the name Continental dates from his early experiences in Iowa. Out of these little local properties he formed the Continental Gas & Electric Co., and with this as his base he reached out to furnish interconnected current to Lincoln, Neb.; Kansas City, Mo., and a score of smaller communities in between. In 1924 his Continental group came east and bought control of the Columbus (O.) light plant.

Shortly afterward Continental joined the larger United Light & Power Co., in which were potent Mellon and Chicago interests. Quite a few times a smaller Eaton company merged with a bigger outfit, only to put Eaton in control. It had got to be a way with Eaton. Finally he and his group in United, in association with the other interests, were directing utility properties valued at a billion and a half.

Shortly after the United merger Eaton began to see that the method he had been using to join electricity and gas companies might be applied with almost equal logic to the steel industry, not to mention rubber, print paper and banks. His first acquisition was control of the Trumbull Steel Co. of Warren, O., then in highly uncertain condition.

Step by step he acquired steel companies in Canton, Massillon, Youngstown, Buffalo, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Chicago, and in the fall of 1929 he welded them all together as the $350,000,000 Republic Steel Corporation. The new Republic was about half the size the Steel Corporation was upon its formation.

Other iron and steel interests of Eaton's, not consolidated with Republic, were his shares in Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Wheeling Steel Corporation, Cleveland Cliffs and Inland Steel. These and one or two others were possibilities toward a second Eaton combination in steel.

In the rubber industry Eaton had acquired, through the medium of his Continental Shares, Inc., formed in 1924, a substantial interest in Goodyear, Goodrich and Firestone companies, all in Akron, O., plus U. S. Rubber. Just what stabilization Eaton had in mind for the rubber industry never was disclosed.

THIS sort of activity appealed to Eaton rather more than public utilities had. The trouble with light and power and gas, after all was said and done, it wandered over the map and got to be pretty monotonous. After you had constructed one big electric utility you had constructed them all, in a manner of speaking.

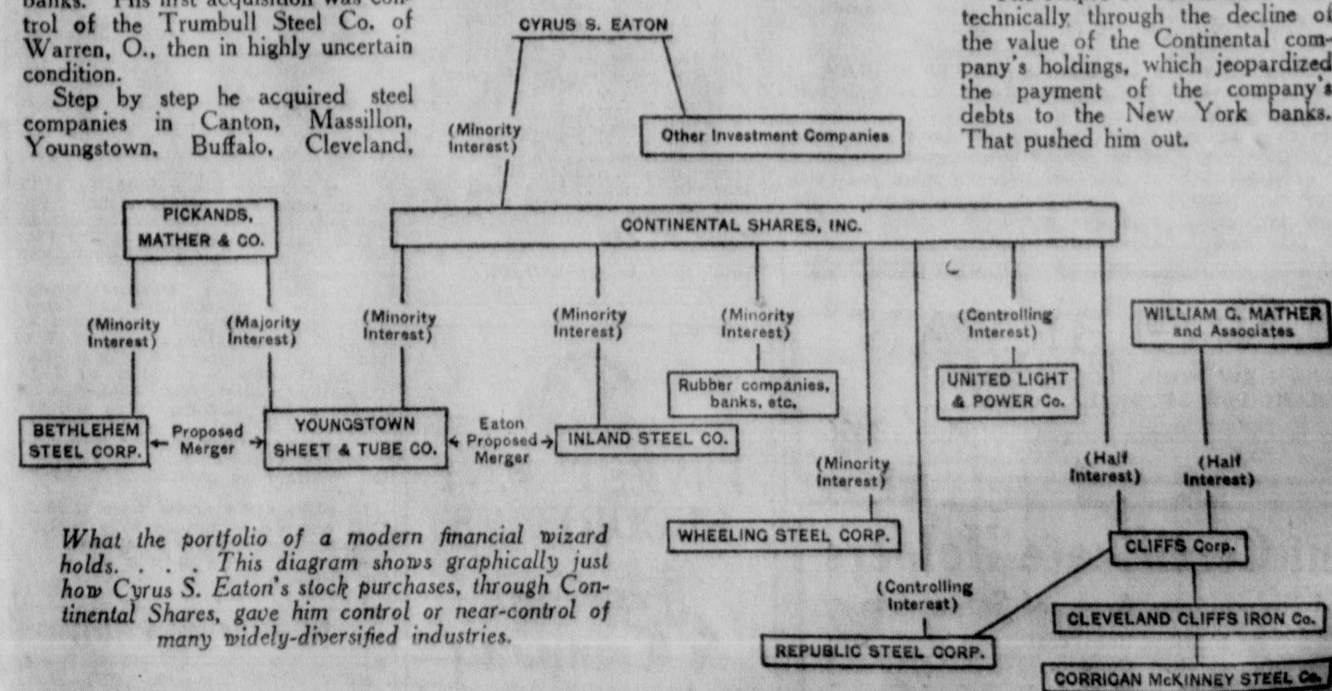

But with steel it was different. Each company had its own pungent personalities, each its territories, each its special problems. The same was true of rubber and the other disturbed trades to which the Eaton attention was turned.

In the steel industry Eaton sought to build up groups of companies around new and valuable processes, the Johnston pipe welding patents for one, the Krupp stainless steels for another. Equally there appealed to him the possibility of organizing steel companies around regional resource and pride. His Republic was centered strikingly in the middle zone of steel, only in a minor way upon the fringes like Chicago and Buffalo.

Eaton's vehicles for his manifold activities were mainly a group of investment companies, the largest of them Continental Shares, plus a syndicate or two, plus his own great personal holdings of stocks and those standing in the name of Otis & Co. He had many friends in Cleveland, New York, Chicago and Detroit, and they and lesser fry among investors bought stock or participations in these financial companies.

Eaton openly stated that his were not investment trusts in the ordinary sense, but were designed to take large positions, presumably for large stakes.

The eclipse of Eaton came about technically through the decline of the value of the Continental company's holdings, which jeopardized the payment of the company's debts to the New York banks. That pushed him out.

What the portfolio of a modern financial wizard holds. . . This diagram shows graphically just how Cyrus S. Eaton's stock purchases, through Continental Shares, gave him control or near-control of many widely-diversified industries.

PROTECTION FROM WAR

Congressman Phil Swing declared yesterday before the 11th annual encampment of the department of California and Nevada, Veterans of Foreign Wars, "there is no excuse for disarmament of any kind."

We do not know just exactly what Mr. Swing had in mind, possibly he was misquoted. To talk about adequate defense and preparedness, with the present methods of attack, in our judgment, is little short of ridiculous. The incidental protection today against war is the financial condition of the nations. Maybe armament is a good thing, because the effort to have great standing armies and battlefleets is keeping the nations too poor to actually engage in conflict.

From that standpoint, the suggestion of armament might have some sense, but when 72 cents out of each dollar of taxes and of government money is paid for wars, and when there is the greatest reason to believe that we could not protect Los Angeles, San Francisco, or New York from destructive attack by air, the expenditure is little short of absurd.

The knowledge by the nations that another war would mean the destruction of civilization, and the knowledge by each that his chief cities are unprepared to protect themselves from attack and destruction from the enemy, goes a long way, among intelligent men, to prevent differences reaching the point of open hostility between the nations.

The best protection from international wholesale murder is to develop the present established means of settling disputes, and the cultivation of good will among the nations. This is the best kind of "armament or protection." It is the only kind that will preserve our civilization. It is the only kind that has any power to protect. This is the kind that is based on intelligence; that is based upon the knowledge by one nation that it does not know all the facts concerning the claims of the other. It is a spur to information; it is urging us on toward that tolerance which insures respect and is the handmaiden of peace.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

A week ago, a gentleman appeared before the City Council and presented arguments against the report which the Chamber of Commerce budget committee had presented to the City Council, requesting that certain sums be applied for the purposes named.

We understand that this statement, which was published in The Register, has been construed by some to be an attack upon the Chamber of Commerce. We did not so understand it. We thought it was a discussion of a matter of policy and of specific recommendations, which we have expected would be answered by that organization.

We do not feel that the Chamber of Commerce itself needs any defense in the City of Santa Ana. We doubt seriously if any similar organization in any community, anywhere, has done better work, been more thorough in its undertakings, and has had wiser leadership than has the Chamber of Commerce in Santa Ana.

A Chamber of Commerce, like every other institution, is "the lengthened shadow of a man." In the Chamber of Commerce of Santa Ana, the secretary, George Raymer, is that man. We have been in contact with many secretaries of Chambers of Commerce. We have watched their activities and can frankly say that we have never seen any man who in all-around ability, grasp of a situation, brains and enthusiasm to bring things to pass, excels Mr. Raymer.

It is exceedingly unfortunate that some so confuse issues as to make it difficult to discuss issues on their merit, because of the constant attempt to lug in personalities, and try to make out that in differing on a specified plan, one is opposing men.

Of course, sometimes there is an effort deliberately to head off criticism of a plan by over-awing the public with the names of prominent citizens who come out in its favor. This is hardly fair, and we should avoid this as far as possible.

We do not believe that there is any man or group of men who value more highly the services of an institution like the Chamber of Commerce than does the newspaper. An increased number of citizens means increased circulation, and increased circulation means increased business. It helps the newspaper possibly more than any other institution, with the exception of the public utilities. This does not mean, however, that we may not all differ as to how tax money should be used for advertising, or for publicity purposes, or whether at times money should be used at all.

While we are confident that no man is better prepared by knowledge and experience to wisely judge of what and where to use money for publicity purposes, than is our present secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, when all the facts are before him, yet we do believe that all of those facts would have to be before him, as before anyone else, to gain the wisest judgment. Quite a different reaction might come in the discussion of the possibilities, as well as the opportunities, with a group like the city council, who represent and have been elected by all the people, than by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce, who at best represent but a small portion of them, and unfortunately hardly a real cross-section of the population.

From the very nature of the Chamber of Commerce, the ones who are most greatly interested in it are the business men of the city. It naturally functions best during times of economic progress and expansion. During such periods as we are now in, the interest of all of the citizens would undoubtedly suggest that more of the energies of our commercial and economic clearing house should be devoted to the enlisting and developing of good will and the interests of those closer home, than at times when money and men are seeking, in their financial expansion, new opportunities for both homes and business.

We are among those who have that faith and confidence in the Chamber of Commerce, its work and its value to ourselves that we would be willing to see it financed more largely than it is, and aid in so doing, but financed by contributions, made primarily by those who are more immediately benefitted by its activities particularly at this time of severe stress.

We would hate to do business in a community that did not have a live, wide-awake, forward looking, aggressive Chamber of Commerce.

A SUGGESTION

We have heard, during the past months, many complaints concerning the hours of school in Santa Ana. Many of the children must be there by 8 o'clock. This, many parents have found to be a very early hour for their children, and it is certainly an early hour for some of the children. It is an earlier hour than the head of the family is required to get to his office or to his place of business, in many cases.

It means, therefore, a disturbance of the whole family program to get the child off to school, as early as has been determined upon. It is a full half-hour earlier than in most parts of the country, and is an hour earlier than in some places. We are rather impressed that if the parents should have a voice in it, the opening of school would be at a little later hour than 8 o'clock.

More serious, however, than this condition, is the short period of time for noon lunch. Approximately one-half an hour is allowed for the children above the seventh grade, to have luncheon, to stop school, go out and get something to eat and get back into the school room. Hundreds of children, who, if this period were doubled, could go to their homes and receive luncheons prepared by the mother, are unable to do so, because of this lack of time. They either must carry their luncheons, which are cold, and in many cases more unappetizing, or buy their luncheons.

It is difficult to control the child in the selection of food which he makes, if it is purchased. Some parents have complained of the nature of the food their children eat, others of the seeming requirement to "bolt" it, and particularly so if they desire a little play spell.

To be sure, it enables the whole school to let out in the early part of the afternoon, which in a way adds to the problem of the home rather than aids it. It is a real task for the parents to train their children. Some mothers are compelled to work, and if the period of time the child is in school were in the heart of the day, rather than start in so early and get through so early, it would help solve many problems in looking after the children, from the home point of view.

There may be some strong reasons why these hours might prevail in college classes, but we feel confident that the majority of parents of children in other grades would favor later hours than the present ones, and certainly more time for luncheon.

More than that, in families where there are children in different grades, it would help the problem in the home to have school take up at the same hours.

WHO KNOWS?

According to a Chicago University publication, the late Dr. Albert A. Michelson declared that he did not understand, and could not explain Einstein's theory of relativity and the fourth dimension.

Michelson was one of the 12 men who were reputed to understand this Einstein theory. Maybe the other 11 would admit that they didn't know. One of the difficulties is to prove that any one of them knows. Maybe a little later Einstein will come out and admit that he was joking them all the time.

This is an age, however, when we are all believing a lot of things that we don't pretend to understand.

MODERATE PROSPERITY

President Hoover says that in the recovery from this depression, the country will go into greater prosperity than ever. This may be so. Probably most people hope that it will be so, but in our judgment, it would be better for the country if its prosperity would be more moderate, and the eclipses of prosperity not quite so severe.

We should be looking, not for a greater prosperity than we have enjoyed, but for a moderate business pace and a condition where want and distress are reduced to the minimum.

More Truth Than Poetry

THE CATCH IN HUSBANDRY

Last spring I observed: "If a garden I grow
Filled with lettuce and spinach and beans,
My daily expenses will run very low
And perhaps I shall husband my means.
Why pay out my cash for the green-grocer's stuff
When my family all may be fed
From a garden that furnished more than enough
And at merely a few cents per head?"

So I bought me a spade and a rake and a hoe
And a few dozen packets of seeds,
And read up on methods of making them grow
So they shortly might serve all my needs.
The aphides and beetles did mischief, of course,
But these vermin on poison I fed,
And watched them with never a pang of remorse
While they fell from the plants, cold and dead.

But the beet tops soon withered, the beans failed to sprout,
The lettuce grew flabby and pale,
The early fall strawberries failed to come out
And wholly inert was the kale.
So I went to a neighbor and asked him the cause
Of the course that my garden pursued.
And he told me that, following natural laws,
A garden would have to have food.

Now here was a slip-up of nature, indeed!
No sense in the thing could I see,
For I had on my hands a great garden to feed
Which I fancied would shortly feed me.
So I know why the farmers are in such a plight
And for yearly relief must entreat;
The poor things must labor far into the night
To get food for their oats and their wheat.

Why Business Men Run Risks

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

Profits and losses result from taking risks, and risks are universal. The prospector drills where there may be no oil. The railway company constructs a road that the automobile may render useless. Stores no sooner stock up with Mah Jong sets, than the fickle public decides to play backgammon.

For the orange grower, there is danger of a frost; for the cotton planter, the boll-weevil; for the railroads, Congress.

So it is the world over. Every business enterprise faces not only risks that are the common lot, but also risks that are peculiarly its own.

Every business man must run risks. He can usually choose among risks; but choose he must.

Every cotton manufacturer, for example, must buy cotton. If he buys cotton today, he may buy on a falling market; if he does not buy today, he may be forced to buy later at a ruinous price. If he borrows money in order to buy cotton, he may not be able to pay the interest; if he postpones buying, he may not be able to get the cotton. If he invests in advertising, he may fail to get his money back; if he does not advertise, he may fail to sell his product.

Every day, every business man must make decisions. Always they are decisions to meet certain risks instead of others. Postponing a decision is, in itself, taking a risk.

In short, every business man is beset on all hands by risks that are inherent in the nature of business. If he runs away from some, he is sure to run into others. If he gains a profit, it is partly a reward for the wise choice of risks. It is not "something for nothing."

Thoughts On Modern Life

SECURITY FOR TEACHERS

For all their faults—and none they are legion than the teachers themselves—the teachers are the hope of the future.

Unless we can train in our schools a broader and braver leadership to supervise our increasingly complex social order, I do not know to what other source we can look.

What the nation is thinking about the rewards and regulation of the teaching profession is, therefore, of critical importance.

For a long time the notion of security of tenure for teachers has been accepted pretty generally as beyond dispute as to its desirability.

Local school system after system has adopted regulations under which, after due probationary test, a teacher has assurance of permanent tenure and can be removed only for manifest misconduct or provable incompetence.

There is no doubt that American society has, in a sense, offered this security of tenure to teachers as part recompense for low salaries.

But beyond this bread-and-butter trade there has been the conviction that security of tenure is important as a safeguard against temptations the teacher might feel if he were subject to the annual whim of superintendent, board or president.

The pressures toward conformity are powerful enough, many have thought, without adding the pressure which might feel if they had no assurance of tenure beyond the year.

Lately there has been accumulating a new critical attitude toward this problem of tenure.

State legislatures, interim legislative committees and trustees of private universities have begun to ask whether security of tenure is not a dangerous subsidy of incompetence as well as a desirable safeguard of freedom of thought and expression.

One great university has recently revised its regulations so that virtually all staff appointments are to be made for definite periods instead of for indefinite tenure as in the past.

We shall, I predict, see an increasingly critical reconsideration of the problem of tenure for teachers. And we must, I suggest, seek to divide the question so that we can, if possible, prevent our tenure policies from being a shield behind which incompetence and laziness can forever hide, and, at the same time, not put our teaching profession at the mercy of the changing moods of superintendents, boards of education and presidents. OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

THE THUNDER STORM

The season for thunder storms is here. The big fluffy thunder heads will pile high in the sky, each of them edged with shining silver, and by and by the first low growl of the thunder giant will roll through the hills. Nearer and nearer the great voice rumbles and the lightning comes in fearsome darts and flashes. Then the wind rides down the valley and the storm breaks. The children are afraid.

It is nothing out of the ordinary for a child to fear thunder. Children fear noise. Thunder is the sort of noise that they do not understand and fear takes hold of them and strikes them ill with terror. Words do not help much when a child is in a panic. One's manner is what reaches the child.

If you are unafraid your whole being will announce your courage and at once the child has a refuge and strength that hold him up.

Then as he leans on your courage, tell him about the thunder. Tell him how it is made. Tell him it is the voice of the air promising cooler, clearer weather. Tell him about the wind and the rain and the growing things. Teach him that the shower is part of the routine of growing things. The gardener of the world sees that the plants, the animals, all growing things, have water when they need it.

Tell them how beautiful the storm is. It is wonderful to watch the clouds pile up and roll across the sky. The color of them, the stately grace of their majestic forms as they rise in fairy towers or giant's turrets, the soft veil of the rain against the face of the world, the new color of the freshly washed sky and meadow—all these lend a precious loveliness to the scene. When a child can lose himself in the beauty and majesty of a thunder shower his fear is gone forever. In its place is a oneness with the elements that brings him great comfort and an inward joy.

Aside from this, the calm acceptance of the thunder shower will give the child freedom from a fear that is more of a burden than the unafraid person can imagine. Fear of thunder will make a child ill. It will unfit him for the day. Such a strain weakens his resistance to other fears and he is likely to be a nervous, fear-burdened child when he might, if carefully trained to like the storm, become as hardy as a hophead.

The attitude of the grownup people has a lot to do with the bearing of children during a thunder shower. The mother or teacher who closes the windows, lowers the shades, huddles the children in a corner and begins saying prayers for safety and protection is setting the stage for a permanent fear of thunder. The person who prepares to enjoy the storm is setting the stage for courage and for real enjoyment of one of nature's finest moods.

ZEPPELIN ATTACK

On June 16, 1917, at about 2 a. m., two zeppelins made an attack on the east coast of England.

The official report said that one of the airships crossed the Kentish coast and dropped bombs on a coast town, killing two persons, injuring 16 and wrecking a large number of houses. The second airship attacked a coast town of East Anglia, but did no damage before it was engaged by the Royal Flying Corps, brought down in flames and destroyed.

Thousands witnessed the end of this zeppelin. The attack by anti-aircraft guns on the dirigible lasted fully an hour, and people ran from their houses half dressed to watch the fight. When the zeppelin was seen to burst into flames the spectators cheered tumultuously. It had been first winged by a land gun, and then was finished by an airplane, which the zeppelin fought to the last with her guns.

The dirigible dropped into a field of corn, far from any habitation, and was destroyed. All of the crew were killed and their bodies badly charred. Some of the men appeared to have jumped.
